Armstrong

Round Lake Treatment Centre (Round Lake Alcohol & Drug Treatment Society)
First Nations Health Authority / National Native Alcohol and Drug Abuse Program
Location: Armstrong / Round Lake (25 km north of Vernon in the Okanagan Valley)
Description: “Culture Is Treatment” is our philosophy. Our programs are grounded in cultural teachings and practices facilitated by Elders and staff. Out of respect for all belief systems, the spirituality components of the program will not interfere with, but enhance all of our clients’ spiritual beliefs. We provide a welcoming and open environment of non-violence, learning, and collaboration. Every emphasis is placed on our clients’ need for physical and emotional safety while experiencing treatment. Round Lake is committed to providing trauma-informed services from the core principles of trauma awareness, safety, trustworthiness, choice, collaboration and building of strengths and skills. Round Lake believes in the power of the circle to heal the impact of trauma.

Programs & Services
Alcohol and Drug Treatment Centre (35 beds): Six-week treatment program addresses the impact of historic and intergenerational trauma by guiding participants through activities and ceremonies that help to resolve trauma, grief, and shame. Emphasis in the healing circle is on safety, trust, and self-care and facilitates wellness for Indigenous trauma survivors.

Recovery Home (10 beds): Post-treatment home for clients who require more assistance to further strengthen their wellness and recovery. The home will provide a safe and stable environment for clients who have completed a full treatment program but who require more assistance to further strengthen their wellness and recovery.

Pre-treatment home for clients who require stabilization before entering treatment.

Refresher Program: Clients are welcome to do a refresher anytime after they have completed the Round Lake program. They must have remained totally abstinent from alcohol and/or other drugs from the time they completed the program. If not, they are then welcome to apply to do another complete program when eligible for the funding. Refreshers are for a four-week period during each treatment cycle. The referral worker is required to submit a complete and updated application for treatment.

Referral & Admissions criteria (Alcohol and Drug Treatment Centre):
Length: 6-week
Opioid Replacement Therapy: Yes
Family Program: No
Couples Program: Yes
Gender: Co-ed
Pregnant: Yes – Only within the 2nd trimester
Alcohol/Substance free: 14 days
Applications are accepted by referral from an alcohol and drug counsellor or referral worker.
Service area: We welcome clients from all over BC.

Cranbrook & Aq’am (ʔaq’am) Community (formerly Saint Mary’s Indian Band)

Native Courtworker Program
Native Courtworker & Counselling Association of British Columbia
Office location: Cranbrook
Description: For over 40 years, Native Courtworkers have helped Indigenous people navigate the criminal justice system. There are Native Courtworkers located around the province, covering approximately 70% of the provincial courts. They work with the various officers of the court, communities and service providers to assist Indigenous people in contact with the justice system to receive fair, equitable and culturally sensitive treatment within that challenging system.

Programs & Services: Native Courtworkers assist Indigenous accused by providing timely and accurate information at the earliest possible opportunity and at all stages of the criminal justice process. We provide information about the nature and consequences of the charge; your rights, responsibilities and options under the law including alternative justice processes (if available); the philosophy and functioning of the criminal justice system, and of alternative justice processes (if available); court procedures; and the disposition or direction given by the court or community to the offender. Additionally, Native Courtworkers:
- Provide Indigenous accused with appropriate referral to legal resources (as available and where practical);
- Refer Indigenous accused to appropriate social, education, employment, medical and other resources to enable them to address the underlying problems which contribute to their charges and, where appropriate, follow-up on these referrals;
- Liaise between Indigenous accused and criminal justice personnel to help overcome communication barriers and reduce Indigenous alienation from the criminal justice system. This may include being available to provide appropriate information to the court and/or speaking on behalf of the accused;
- Inform justice officials about the cultural traditions, values, languages, socio-economic conditions and other concerns of the Indigenous community and the perspective of Indigenous accused. Initiate further understanding when required;
- Promote understanding within the Indigenous community, of the existing criminal justice system and alternative justice processes;
- Promote and facilitate community-based justice initiatives and help build community capacity to identify and address problems, which could end up in the courts or community justice system.

Esk’etemc First Nation / Alkali Lake

Esk’etemc Restorative Justice Program (Esk’etemc First Nation)

Indigenous Justice Strategy Program (Justice Canada & BC Corrections)

Location: Esk’etemc / Alkali Lake

Description: The Esketemc Restorative Justice Program delivers a holistic and culturally appropriate service, coordinated across various federal and provincial jurisdictions and community agencies to meet the needs of the Esk’etemc community. The goal of the Program is to facilitate resolution of crimes, healing, recovery and prevention.

Programs & Services
Adult Program: Our services for adults include but are not limited to: bail and probation monitoring; diversion and alternative measures programming, restorative justice circles, coordination of community work service; facilitation of culturally relevant healing plans; and referrals to further support of our clients. The majority of incidents are handled through traditional healing circles, which provide a non-judgmental, safe environment for resolution of cases.

Service area: Esk’etemc Restorative Justice is located in Esk’etemc First Nation, which is approximately 50km south of Williams Lake.

Referrals: Referrals into the program are made by the Esk’etemc community, Williams Lake RCMP, Crown Counsel, Williams Lake Community Council for Restorative Justice.

Esk’etemc Recovery House (Alkali Lake) - Letwilc Ren Semec Centre
First Nations Health Authority / National Native Alcohol and Drug Abuse Program
Location: Esk’etemc / Alkali Lake
Description: Letwilc Ren Semec Centre guides and assists clients on the path toward recovery while reintegrating a healthy lifestyle in a culturally safe recovery service. The program addresses substance use disorder using traditional cultural values. We provide cultural components, safe housing and programs to strengthen wellness, recovery and reintegration into the community.

Programs & Services: We accept individuals who have fully completed an alcohol and drug treatment program. The recovery centre includes five rooms for an adult substance use supported recovery housing service. The centre promotes recovery for individuals with substance use challenges by providing safe and secure housing, and promoting reintegration into the community by helping clients secure housing upon discharge. Clients may stay up to six months.

Referral & Admissions Criteria: Clients must be referred by a recognized referral worker to ensure they are appropriately assessed. In some cases, clients may refer themselves into the program, provided a doctor or nurse practitioner supports the completion of the application. Clients must be 19 years or older and already have completed a substance use treatment program. Clients must be motivated to self-directed change and committed to follow Letwilc Ren Semec Centre guidelines and protocols. Our centre cannot receive patients who engage in self-harm. Clients must be able to participate in outside appointments and activities without supervision.

Service area: Priority is given to Indigenous clients from the Interior.
Funding & Costs: Cost for the program is $325 per month, which includes lunch and dinner (snacks, breakfast and other personal costs are extra). Alternatively, clients may apply to their individual Band Officer for funding, or through Social Assistance. Please note that there is no First Nations Health Authority coverage at this time.

Kamloops & T’kemlups te Secwépemc

Secwepemc Community Justice Program

Indigenous Justice Strategy Program (Justice Canada & BC Corrections)

Location: Kamloops / Whispering Pines / Clinton Indian Band

Description: The Secwepemc Community Justice Program (SCJP) utilizes restorative justice processes in a culturally appropriate and traditional way, in balance with our current legal system. The SCJP is open to Indigenous youth and adults in the Kamloops and surrounding areas and aims to contribute to the overall wellness in our communities. Our programs are designed to:

- Lessen the offender’s involvement in the formal criminal justice system;
- Hold the person/offender responsible and accountable for their criminal acts;
- Protect society by deterring the offender from future criminal activity;
- Involve the community, Elders, youth, and the person who has been harmed;
- Keep people with mental or physical illnesses out of prison.

The SCJP develops more satisfactory resolutions of criminal matters involving Indigenous offenders and victims than are currently provided by the mainstream criminal justice system, in addition to work in healing and reintegration circles for past harms.

Programs & Services

Community Justice Forums (CJF): This model is used by the RCMP and provides a safe, controlled environment in which an offender, victim and their families or supporters are brought together under the guidance of a trained facilitator. Together they discuss the offence, how they have all been affected, and jointly develop a plan to correct what has occurred. Offenders must accept responsibility for their own actions. They are confronted with how their behavior affected the victim personally - and they hear it directly from their victim. The conversations are often difficult and emotional, so a neutral, impartial and well-trained facilitator is present to guide the conversation. Each is encouraged to speak openly, honestly and fully. Together they create a plan that will satisfy the needs of everyone. Sometimes it is enough for the offender to apologize and return what was taken or fix what was broken. Other agreements may include: community service work, counselling, or addictions treatment for the offender. Other solutions are possible, and welcomed.
Alternative Measures/Extrajudicial Sanctions (Crown Counsel Referrals): Alternative Measures/Extrajudicial Sanctions offer youth/adults accused of a criminal offence the opportunity to take responsibility for their behaviour and address the harm that has been committed. These youth/adults participate in a program that resolves cases within a community agency or with community participation. Alternative measures/extrajudicial sanctions are a way to address crime in conjunction with the criminal justice system. These programs attempt to deal with criminal behaviour in a proactive manner. These programs attempt to balance the needs of victims, the accused and their communities, and ensure that society is protected. The decision about which offenders are eligible for these programs is made by the Crown Prosecutor, although police, defense lawyers, the victim or the accused may request a referral to an alternative measures program.

Victim/Offender Mediation: Brings the victim, offender and in some cases other community members together with a trained mediator in a neutral environment to discuss the offending behaviour. Provides an opportunity for the parties to talk to each other about the crime, have questions answered and express how the offence has affected them. The mediator helps the parties to reach a satisfactory agreement on how the offender can make reparation for the offence.

Peacemaking Circles: A resolution process for healing relationships and keeping them healthy, Peacemaking Circles explore how communities can respond to crimes in ways that address the needs and interests of all those affected – victims, offenders, their families and friends, and the community. Based on Indigenous teachings combined with research in conflict resolution, the Circle process improves relationships, addresses underlying cause, and enhances individual and community self-reliance. Types of Circles may include Community Building Circles, Talking Circles, Healing Circles, Reintegration Circles, Conflict Circles, and Sentencing Circles. Circles are used in a variety of settings such as workplaces, government, justice systems, schools, and communities. The circle process can serve many purposes, including: dialogue, learning, community and team building, strategic planning, conflict resolution and healing.

Respectful Relationships Program: The delivery of this program is open to all persons 18 years of age or older, male or female, couples, Indigenous or non-Indigenous, clients under supervision for an offence related to relationship violence or any person interested in the information or to learn how to improve your relationship skills and end violence in the Kamloops & surrounding areas. The Respectful Relationships (RR) Program will give a better understanding of how behaviors/actions affect relationships. It gives one knowledge and skills and basic tools to assist in stopping the violence in their life. The program is comprised of ten sessions and each session is about two-and-a-half hours.

Referral & Admissions Criteria: Eligible referrals include Indigenous youth and adults who could be charged with a minor offence (such as theft, mischief, break and enter, vandalism, common assaults) and more serious offences under the Criminal Code, Department of Fisheries and Oceans Act, the BC Wildlife Act, through BC/CN Rail referrals or referrals made by the community or school. It is at the discretion of the police member who may consult with Crown
Counsel, the Probation Office and others, as appropriate. Not all first-time offenders will be considered for this program. To qualify for the program, the offender must admit responsibility for the offence and agree to take part in the process. Agreement to participate in the program must be reached by the offender, his or her parents (if a young offender), and the victim or complainant. Qualifying cases are then referred to the coordinator of the Secwepemc Community Justice Program, to be referred to a trained, qualified facilitator. Factors that are considered: the seriousness of the offence, previous involvement in the justice system (previous criminal record), the feelings of the victim(s), and person’s attitude about the offence. If the referral has been accepted by the program a circle/forum will be held in which a resolution can be created with input from all persons involved. Some of the possible outcomes may include: traditional/cultural healing, traditional/cultural education, written or verbal apology, financial restitution, community service work, donation, addictions or personal counselling, or other reasonable actions as agreed upon.

Kamloops Aboriginal Friendship Society (KAFS)
Location: Kamloops
Description: The vision of the Elders, members, Board of Directors, Executive Director, and staff has resulted in useful programs and services for urban Natives offered by the Friendship Society. The goals and objectives of the Society remain flexible so as to be responsive to the ever-changing needs of the urban Indigenous and non-Indigenous community.

Programs & Services
Alcohol & Drug Program: The Alcohol & Drug Program provides free counselling to all individuals who are seeking support & information for recovery from alcohol or drug addiction. The following services are available to Status, non-Status, Métis, Inuit, and two-spirited clients living on- and off-reserve, including rural areas:
- Individual treatment, as well as small group, marital and family counselling for individuals 15 years of age or older;
- Culturally sensitive substance use service using a harm-reduction model;
- Referral to treatment centres and other services including in-house referrals;
- Crisis intervention to at-risk clients;
- Prevention workshops;
- 12 Steps on the Road to Wellbriety program.
Contact: Addictions Counsellor
Urban Aboriginal Health Centre: We are fortunate to have two physicians and a full-time nurse practitioner at our clinic. We are now able to take on patients in all age groups who are of Indigenous descent. Our clinic is a full-scope medical office however we do have a few areas of specialization including mental health and substance use. We are able to help those ready to start making changes toward a healthy life away from active addiction. Our other focus has come out of seeing the many hurting, addicted people we see every day; PTSD is one of four most common diagnoses and we help with proper medication while providing clients a safe place to tell their story and receive referrals to appropriate mental health resources.

Permanent Address: 125 Palm Street, Kamloops

Family Preservation & Youth Services: This team provides a holistic and cultural approach to enhance the services that we offer. We have developed a co-operative working relationship with the Ministry for Children and Family Development (MCFD) staff and Secwepemc Child and Family Services (SCFS). We offer services that support the best outcomes for our families. This could include things such as counselling services (family and individual), assistance in navigating the court processes, parenting enhancement workshops, crisis intervention services, home visits and supporting youth with general services. The Family Preservation and Youth Services team members are qualified professionals that provide culturally appropriate services to all children, youth and their families in need of support. We are able to respond in a timely manner especially during an immediate crisis situation. MCFD and SCFS referrals are our main priority, but we also accept self-referrals, referrals from School District 73, Royal Inland Hospital referrals and referrals from other community organizations.

Kamloops Cknucwentn First Nations Sentencing Court
Provincial Court of British Columbia
Location: Kamloops
Description: First Nations Courts are criminal sentencing courts that use restorative justice and traditional ways to reach balance and healing. First Nations Courts focus on balancing rehabilitation, accountability, and healing. With the advice of Elders and your community, the judge creates a healing plan to help restore your mental, physical, spiritual, and emotional health. You might still be sentenced to jail. If you're sentenced to jail, the judge must still consider your unique circumstances in their decision. The Elders Justice Council is an active part of the Indigenous Court process, helping clients create a healing plan that addresses the factors that led them into the justice system. The Elders hold monthly business meetings and participate in all sittings of the Prince George Indigenous Court. (Source: Legal Services Society)

BC Native Women's Association Indigenous Skills and Employment Training (ISET) Program
Location: Kamloops (serves all of BC)
Description: BC Native Women's Association (BCNWA) believes that education and training opportunities can help Indigenous women achieve economic success. Our Indigenous/Aboriginal Skills Employment and Training Strategy (ISETS/ASETS) program takes a labour-market-driven approach so that all training initiatives reflect the actual labour market needs in your community.
Program Details: BCNWA-ISETS will sponsor the final two years of your degree, or the last two years of your diploma or certificate program. We also currently offer a targeted wage-subsidy program. Training initiatives are approved based on funding availability, individual eligibility, and labour-market needs. BCNWA-ISETS can provide back-to-work assistance including work clothes, shoes and travel (monthly bus pass, etc.).
Admissions Criteria & Current Training Programs: Training support is provided for demand-driven skills that are necessary in today's labour market. Applicants must be a First Nations, Métis or Inuit woman residing off-reserve in BC. Applicants must provide:
- One piece of photo ID and either a status card, or C-3 application or Métis card;
- Letter of acceptance from an accredited program;
- Letter from your Band stating that no funds will be allocated to you for this program/course, or stating what amounts the Band has sponsored (e.g: tuition, books, living allowance);
- Proof of financial need if applying for a living allowance;
- Program must be delivered through a recognized public post-secondary training institution;
- Visit our website, our Facebook page, or call for details.

Funding & Financial Support: BCNWA provides financial support to First Nations, Inuit and Métis women living off-reserve in any part of British Columbia. We will sponsor the final two years of your degree, or the last two years of your diploma or certificate program. We also currently offer a targeted wage-subsidy program. Training initiatives are approved based on funding availability, individual eligibility, and labour-market needs. BCNWA-ASETS/ISETS can provide back-to-work assistance including work clothes, shoes and travel (monthly bus pass, etc.).

Description: The Ki-Low-Na Friendship Society (KFS) was established in 1974. The Ki-Low-Na Friendship Society will provide for the mental, emotional, physical and spiritual well-being of all peoples through the development of community-based services, while encouraging the community to preserve, share and promote Aboriginal cultural distinctiveness.

Programs & Services

Indigenous Youth Justice Worker (KFS)
Funded by Ministry of Justice Canada
Description: Our Indigenous Youth Justice workers support youth who have been in contact with the justice system, integrating a response in conjunction with our other youth programs at the Ki-Low-Na Friendship Society. The program provides two streams of services: a preventive outreach and wraparound services for at-risk youth, and a restorative justice program for youth referred by the Okanagan Boys & Girls Club, loss prevention officers, RCMP, Youth Probation Officers, and local school districts. Our Youth Justice Workers facilitate and coordinate traditional restorative justice circles; assist in the supervision of community service hours; coordinate healing plans and cultural interventions, including land-based activities; and provide support to the families of youth referred into the program.

Service area: From Lake Country to Peachland.
Referrals: Okanagan Boys & Girls Club, loss prevention officers, RCMP, Youth Probation Officers, and local school districts, the court system, and the community.

Nicola Valley Advocacy Centre

Nicola Valley Community Justice Services Society

Location: Merritt

Description: The Nicola Valley Advocacy Centre provides legal advocacy services to people with low incomes who need legal information, advice or representation on a wide range of legal problems such as income security, housing, disabilities, violence and debt. It also provides public legal education and support for community organizations wishing to assist clients with legal problems. The work of the Centre is supervised by a local lawyer, who also provides pro bono legal assistance to the Centre’s clients. The Society operates three programs: the Nicola Valley Advocacy Centre, the Nicola Valley Aboriginal Community Justice Program and The Nicola Valley Indigenous Court Program.

Phone: 250-378-9632  Address: #2 – 2025 Granite Avenue, Merritt BC

Nicola Valley Aboriginal Community Justice Program

Governed by the Nicola Valley Community Justice Services Society

Funded by the Department of Justice (Canada) and the Ministry of Public Safety and Solicitor General (BC)

Location: Merritt

Description: The Nicola Valley Aboriginal Community Justice Program (NVACJP) provides individuals, families and local Band communities with the opportunity to develop and participate in structured alternatives to the court system when dealing with criminal and potentially criminal matters. The program offers restorative justice practices and alternative measures or diversion components that focus on community-based justice circles where matters are dealt with in a safe, controlled environment. The program also provides monitoring of Indigenous adults on court-ordered probation, which may include supervision of community work service and counselling or treatment options.

Programs & Services

Adult Program: Services include but are not limited to probation monitoring; alternative measures and diversion programming; restorative justice circles; peacemaking circles, coordination of community work service; and facilitation of culturally relevant healing circles.

Youth Program: The NVACJP supports youth diversion through our restorative justice component. Youth are welcomed to address underlying issues, using restorative justice and healing circles as a tool to restore balance and wellness within the community harmed. Intervention and prevention programming are an important part of the work that is offered to support youth in our local communities.

Nicola Valley Indigenous Court (NVIC): Within the mandate of our adult programming, we offer assistance and support to clients referred into the Nicola Valley Indigenous Court. Working in collaboration with Crown Counsel, Defense Counsel, and Merritt Community Corrections, along with our panel of Elders, the NVACJP assists clients in accessing vital community programs and counselling services. The Elders are an active part of the Indigenous Court’s sentencing process, as the Elders work with Crown and the assigned Judge to create a healing plan that is attached to the clients’ probation orders, addressing the factors that led the client into the justice system. In conjunction with the Native Courtworker and Counselling Association of BC, the NVACJP helps clients navigate the criminal courts and criminal law. Upon request, the Aboriginal Justice Coordinator provides Gladue information to the Courts.
Additional Programs & Services: As part of the CORE programs with Corrections BC, the Justice Coordinator and Merritt Community Corrections co-facilitate the following courses and programs for clients on probation: Substance Abuse Management (SAM) course, Respectful Relationships Program for men (RRP), and the Violence Prevention program (VPP).

Referrals: The contract for NVACJP includes receiving referrals directly from the RCMP, Crown Counsel and Merritt Community Corrections. However, referrals may also be forwarded from the Nicola Valley Indigenous Court and/or the Elders panel. Referrals are also received from the local schools, including Band schools in the Nicola Valley. Chief and Council of the local Bands may also refer into our program. Self-referrals are accepted from individuals, or from a community or service provider member that may have been harmed, or who bring forward problems that need to be resolved through a restorative justice resolution.

Website: https://www.nvcjss.com/programs/nv-aboriginal-community-justice-program/

Service area: The Nicola Valley Aboriginal Community Justice Program serves all of the Merritt area, plus the outlying five local Indian Bands. These Bands consist of the Lower Nicola, Upper Nicola, Coldwater, Nooaitch and Shackan First Nations, plus the local Métis population. The main focus of the NV Aboriginal Community Justice Program is to ensure service to Indigenous persons, families and communities in the area. However, through the inclusion of the restorative justice component, the program welcomes all residents of the Nicola Valley seeking an alternative to the court process to deal with criminal or potentially criminal matters.

Nicola Valley Indigenous Court
Provincial Court of British Columbia

Location: Merritt

Description: First Nations Courts are criminal sentencing courts that use restorative justice and traditional ways to reach balance and healing. First Nations Courts focus on balancing rehabilitation, accountability, and healing. With the advice of Elders and your community, the judge creates a healing plan to help restore your mental, physical, spiritual, and emotional health. You might still be sentenced to jail. If you’re sentenced to jail, the judge must still consider your unique circumstances in their decision. The Elders Justice Council is an active part of the Indigenous Court process, helping clients create a healing plan that addresses the factors that led them into the justice system. The Elders hold monthly business meetings and participate in all sittings of the Prince George Indigenous Court. (Source: Legal Services Society).

Conayt Friendship Society (Merritt)

Location: Merritt

Description: The term conayt originated from Nlaka:pamux or Ntlakyapamuk, the Thompson language. Conayt means "helping others". In keeping with this philosophy, Conayt Friendship Centre has built a community image to improve holistically the quality of life, cultural distinctiveness, and strengthening friendship and cooperation between the Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal members in our community.

Programs & Services
Conayt Urban Native Housing: Conayt has been in the forefront of the low-income housing market in the Nicola Valley, providing housing for 26 years. We provide a range of housing solutions for low-income families of Aboriginal descent. We have a portfolio of 41 units that are used to provide homes to our clients, approximately 155 people at any given time. Our housing program is one way we have been able to reach Aboriginal households and make a positive impact by providing a basic personal need: housing. Then we make positive change by reaching out and presenting workshops, information, and supports to assist those families in getting themselves on their feet.

Eligibility: Families and single parents of Native ancestry. Status card or Métis card required.

South Okanagan Aboriginal Restorative Justice Program & En’owkin Centre

Indigenous Justice Strategy Program (Justice Canada & BC Corrections)

Location: Penticton

Description: The South Okanagan Restorative Justice program effects change within the existing criminal justice system through the reinstatement of traditional discipline and traditional community practices that assist in the rehabilitation of offenders and the healing victims of crime. South Okanagan Restorative Justice seeks to ensure the restoration of balance within each of the four South Okanagan communities that are affected by crime. The South Okanagan Restorative Justice Program promotes a safe and caring program through restorative action and youth advocacy; holding youth and others accountable for their behavior; reintegrating them in their communities and ensuring that the victim’s concerns are addressed.

Programs & Services

Adult Program: Services include but are not limited to bail and probation monitoring; diversion and alternative measures programming; disciplinary circles, integrated case-management circles & adult restorative sentencing circles; coordination of community work service; and facilitation of culturally relevant healing plans.

Youth Program: South Okanagan Restorative Justice assists with the healing plans and monitoring of young offenders under the supervision of the Youth Probation office of the Ministry of Children and Family Development. Additional services for youth include: extrajudicial sanctions and extrajudicial measures; disciplinary circles, integrated case-management circles & adult restorative sentencing circles; supervision of community work service. Culturally-based intervention and prevention programming are an important part of our work to support youth in local communities. South Okanagan Restorative Justice runs weekly sweats in addition to helping organize land-based and other cultural activities.

Criminal Courts Support: South Okanagan Restorative Justice supports the healing plans of clients by appearing before the Court as needed. Upon request, the Justice Worker can provide Gladue information to the Courts.

Referrals: RCMP, BC Community Corrections, Ministry of Children and Family Development Youth Probation, Crown Counsel, School Districts 67 and 53, Chief and Council, Community Members, Provincial Court Judges.

Yeqox Nilin Justice Society (formerly Punky Lake Wilderness Camp Society / Tsilhqot'in Community Justice Program / Tsilhqot'in Restorative Justice)
Indigenous Justice Strategy Program (Justice Canada & BC Corrections)
Location: Williams Lake
Description: Yeqox Nilin Justice Society (YNJS) supports the Tsilhqot'in and Southern Carrier Nations in the development of community-based approaches to justice issues affecting youth, adults, families and communities. YNJS assists in the implementation of sentencing and conflict resolution alternatives that focus on healing, education and employment opportunities. We provide restorative justice, peacemaking and crime-prevention services to adults, youth and our communities in the Cariboo-Chilcotin region of BC. YNJS is committed to increasing the involvement of victims and the community in sanctioning offences and restoring balance in ways that resonate with our culture and laws.
Programs & Services

Adult Program: Services include but are not limited to adult bail, probation and parole monitoring; adult diversion and alternative measures programming; restorative justice, healing & peacemaking circles; coordination of community work service; and facilitation of culturally relevant healing plans. Yeqox Nilin Justice Society does not currently offer programming for sex offenders.

Youth Program: Yeqox Nilin Justice Society assists with the healing plans and monitoring of young offenders in partnership with the Youth Probation office of the Ministry of Children and Family Development. Additional services for youth include: extrajudicial sanctions and extrajudicial measures; restorative justice, peacemaking & healing circles; and supervision of community work service. In conjunction with our community partners, Yeqox Nilin Justice Society provides intervention and prevention programming & services to support youth and families.

Victim/Offender Mediation Circles: Victim/Offender Mediation Circles bring the victim, offender and in some cases other community members together in a neutral environment with a trained mediator to discuss the offending behaviour. Provides an opportunity for the parties to talk to each other about the offence, have questions answered and express how the offence has affected them. The mediator helps the parties to reach a satisfactory agreement on how the offender can make reparation for the offence.

Williams Lake Situation Table: Situation Tables (also known as “hubs”) help front-line staff from the public safety, health, and social service sectors identify vulnerable people and collaboratively and rapidly connect them to services before they experience a negative or traumatic event (e.g. victimization, overdose, eviction, etc.). Situation Tables empower agencies to reduce a broad range of risks that can impact a person’s well-being and safety. Yeqox Nilin Justice Society is an active partner at the Williams Lake Situation Table.

Success Summer Youth Camps: Funded by MCFD, our camps are mainly held each July and August, offering cultural lessons, life-skills, local guest speakers and fun physical activities. Camps run between 3-5 days for ages 10-14 and 15-17. We ask that communities provide one chaperone per five youth when bringing youth to our camps. Activities include: drum-making, lehal tournaments, Elders' stories, sweat lodge, traditional practices, specialized workshops & awareness workshops.

Additional Programs & Services: Community Justice Forum Circles; Peacemaking Circles; Healing Circles; Reintegration Circles; Classroom Circles; Access to Elders; Connections to Community Events; Ceremony; Prevention Activities; Interventions; Court Accompaniment; Referrals to Other Service Providers & Counsellors.

Referrals: Referrals into our programs come from community members, RCMP, BC Corrections, Crown Counsel, Ministry of Children and Family Development-Youth Probation, Provincial Courts, the Williams Lake Situation Table, & local schools.
Service area: The Tsilhqot’in Community Justice Program serves the Tsilhqot’in and Southern Carrier Nations, West of Williams Lake on the Chilcotin Plateau, including: ?Esdilagh (Alexandria), Tl’eesqox (Toosey), Yunesit’in (Stone), Xeni (Nemiah Valley), Tl’etinqox (Anaham), Tsi Deldel (Redstone), Ulkatcho (Anaham Lake).

William Lake Indigenous Court
Provincial Court of British Columbia

Location: Williams Lake

Description: First Nations Courts are criminal sentencing courts that use restorative justice and traditional ways to reach balance and healing. First Nations Courts focus on balancing rehabilitation, accountability, and healing. With the advice of Elders and your community, the judge creates a healing plan to help restore your mental, physical, spiritual, and emotional health. You might still be sentenced to jail. If you're sentenced to jail, the judge must still consider your unique circumstances in their decision. The Elders Justice Council is an active part of the Indigenous Court process, helping clients create a healing plan that addresses the factors that led them into the justice system. The Elders hold monthly business meetings and participate in all sittings of the Prince George Indigenous Court. (Source: Legal Services Society)

Axis Family Resources
Location: Williams Lake / Kamloops
Description: Axis Family Resources Ltd. has been delivering addictions services to the Thompson Cariboo area of the Interior Health Authority Region since 2006 through our 1st Step program. Approximately 500 youth aged 13 to 24 are assisted each year through the 1st Step Mobile Treatment and 1st Step Short Stay Housing Programs. The 1st Step Education and Support Program focuses on educating and supporting families.

Programs & Services
1st Step Mobile Treatment: An intensive combination of one-week and four-week addictions treatment programs that utilize a harm reduction approach, by meeting individuals where they are at in their readiness for change. Our 1st Step Counsellors travel to various communities throughout the Thompson Cariboo Shuswap Health Region. The program is provided in mobile community settings to males and females aged 13 to 24 who are experiencing difficulties surrounding substance misuse. Individual treatment goals are developed with each person served to address their unique challenges. The program is facilitated by an addictions counsellor and skilled youth worker.
1st Step Short Stay Housing: Provides a safe, stable environment for individuals who are working on their addiction and/or mental health issues. Housing is provided to youth aged 13 to 24 who may or may not be involved with 1st Step Mobile Treatment. The program provides access to safe house beds in the Kamloops area for up to a maximum of 6 weeks. Individuals involved in the program may be experiencing a combination of concurrent issues such as addictions, mental health and behavioral problems. They may also be involved with either or both, Youth Probation or the Ministry of Children and Family Development. Individuals involved with the program are motivated for change and have a day program in place which they are attending on a regular basis such as 1st Step Mobile Treatment, school or other forms of treatment. During their stay, persons served will work with an outpatient counsellor through Mental Health, Addictions Services, Aboriginal Health or Child and Youth Mental Health to establish healthier lifestyles.

Community Based Withdrawal Management: Our philosophy is that our team works to improve our client’s quality of life by tailoring the program to meet their specific needs. All withdrawal management services provided by our agency are team-driven, including input from clients, and their physicians, as well as other community agencies providing additional services.

Referrals: The program can be accessed through referrals from Interior Health, the Ministry of Children and Family Development, Youth Probation, delegated First Nations agencies, First Nations Bands, addictions counsellors and mental health professionals. Referral packages are completed jointly, by the individual and referral agent and submitted to Axis Family Resources to determine intake acceptance.

Chilliwack & Stó:lō Nation

Qwi:qwelstóm - Stó:lō Nation Justice Program
Indigenous Justice Strategy Program (Justice Canada & BC Corrections)
Location: Chilliwack & Stó:lō Nation

Description: Qwi:qwelstóm reflects a “way of life” that incorporates balance and harmony – a way of helping one another to survive and to care and share amongst all people. Traditionally, justice for Stó:lō meant living harmoniously with others; justice was centered upon relations with all living life. When relations became disrupted, Si:yam would gather the people together and decide how best to restore the balance to the relationship. Harmony would be restored through the use of and belief in two fundamental principles: respect and teachings. The Elders and Si:yam would talk to the individuals and re-establish his or her responsibility to live in a good way. This traditional view of justice was based on the principles of consensus decision-making, the interrelatedness of all things, and a sense of belonging and connection to family and community. Today, Qwi:qwelstóm is working to reduce the overincarceration of Indigenous people by reintegrating families and Elders in justice matters affecting our communities. The Qwí:qwelstóm team supports people involved in the criminal justice system and/or people who need support with their journey towards a balance of emotional, spiritual, physical, and mental wellbeing.

Programs & Services

Adult Program: Qwi:qwelstóm strives to provide wraparound services for adults involved in the criminal justice system. Those services include but are not limited to: diversion and alternative measures programming; supporting clients with bail, probation and parole matters; restorative justice circles; coordination of community work service; coordination and facilitation of culturally relevant healing plans; ceremony; traditional teachings; one-on-one Elder support; integrated family circles; and more. There are nine federal and provincial correctional facilities on Stó:lō Nation territory; Qwi:qwelstóm Elders and staff also provide assistance to inmates in these facilities.

Day-Tox Treatment Program: Qwi:qwelstóm - Stó:lō Nation Justice offers a ten week day-tox treatment program at our Stó:lō Service Agency offices. Self-referrals are accepted. Programming is integrated with the Stó:lō Nation’s addictions, mental health and justice programming, and our staff ensure supportive links to other agencies, including the Native Courtworker and Counselling Association of BC.

Community Justice Forums (Restorative Justice Circles): Qwi:qwelstóm provides a safe, controlled environment where clients, victims, families and supports are brought together under the guidance of Elders and family Knowledge-Keepers. In a safe setting, participants discuss the offence, how they have all been affected, and jointly develop a plan to correct what has occurred. Our Elders are instrumental in this process, as are Knowledge-Keepers from the affected families. Qwi:qwelstóm clients must accept responsibility for their own actions in a way that demonstrates transparency and accountability. They are confronted with how their behavior affected the victim personally. The conversations are often difficult and emotional.
therefore a neutral, impartial and well-trained facilitator is present to guide the conversation. Each person is encouraged to speak openly, honestly and fully. Together the group sets out a plan that will satisfy the needs of everyone. Agreements may also include community service work, counselling, or addictions treatment for the client.

Criminal Courts Support: Qwí:qwelstóm works closely with the Native Courtworkers and Counselling Society of BC to help clients navigate the criminal courts and law, including assistance with criminal court applications and referrals to appropriate agencies. We help individuals understand the process of the criminal justice system and court orders. We hold healing circles, and promote cultural awareness, prevention awareness and interventions.

Additional programs & services: Respectful Relationships course (BC Corrections); Substance Abuse Management course (BC Corrections); Gladue Report Support and Coordination (upon request); Intervention Support & Coordination; Family Meetings; Mediation.

Referrals / Admission Criteria: Referrals to Qwí:qwelstóm Justice can be made by any one of the following sources: self-referrals, community members & community agencies, Crown Counsel, RCMP, BC Corrections, Corrections Canada, School Districts, Department of Fisheries and Oceans, BC Conservation Officer Service, the Courts, and the Ministry of Children and Family Development. In order for a referral to be accepted, the person who has done the harm must be willing to take responsibility for his or her actions, and the person(s) harmed must be kept fully informed of the process and invited to participate.

Service area: Qwí:qwelstóm Justice accepts referrals from all Stó:lō Nation Bands and First Nations living in Stó:lō Territory, from other areas in B.C. and from other provinces.

Chilliwack Native Courtworker Program

Native Courtworker & Counselling Association of British Columbia

Office location: Chilliwack

Description: For over 40 years, Native Courtworkers have helped Indigenous people navigate the criminal justice system. There are Native Courtworkers located around the province, covering approximately 70% of the provincial courts. They work with the various officers of the court, communities and service providers to assist Indigenous people in contact with the justice system to receive fair, equitable and culturally sensitive treatment within that challenging system.

Programs & Services: Native Courtworkers assist Indigenous accused by providing timely and accurate information at the earliest possible opportunity and at all stages of the criminal justice process. We provide information about the nature and consequences of the charge; your rights, responsibilities and options under the law including alternative justice processes (if available); the philosophy and functioning of the criminal justice system, and of alternative justice processes (if available); court procedures; and the disposition or direction given by the court or community to the offender. Additionally, Native Courtworkers:

- Provide Indigenous accused with appropriate referral to legal resources (as available and where practical);
- Refer Indigenous accused to appropriate social, education, employment, medical and other resources to enable them to address the underlying problems which contribute to their charges and, where appropriate, follow-up on these referrals;
- Liaise between Indigenous accused and criminal justice personnel to help overcome communication barriers and reduce Indigenous alienation from the criminal justice system. This may include being available to provide appropriate information to the court and/or speaking on behalf of the accused;
- Inform justice officials about the cultural traditions, values, languages, socio-economic conditions and other concerns of the Indigenous community and the perspective of Indigenous accused. Initiate further understanding when required;
- Promote understanding within the Indigenous community, of the existing criminal justice system and alternative justice processes;
- Promote and facilitate community-based justice initiatives and help build community capacity to identify and address problems, which could end up in the courts or community justice system.

Spirit of the Children

Location: New Westminster (beside the SkyTrain station)

Description: We are an Indigenous non-profit society serving families in the Burnaby, New Westminster, and the Tri-Cities area (Coquitlam, Port Coquitlam & Port Moody). We work to empower and strengthen Indigenous families by providing support and resources through the programs we offer.

Programs & Services

Spirit of the Children Housing First (Indigenous Youth age 16 to 24): The Housing First approach is premised on the assumption that the first and primary need of a homeless individual is to obtain stable, permanent housing. The approach involves moving individuals who are chronically or episodically homeless from the streets or homeless shelters directly into permanent housing. Permanent housing is complemented by the provision of services to assist clients to sustain their housing and work towards recovery and reintegration into the community. Our workers from the Housing First Youth Program support Indigenous youth (16 to 24) who are either aging out of care or have aged out, to obtain or sustain housing. Our goal is to connect youth to permanent housing and provide resources for life-skills development and cultural teachings. We support our youth through the following: Advocacy, cultural connections and support, develop transition plans with youth & linkages to services. We also offer life-skills workshops on topics such as employment, financial literacy, relationship-building, and more.

Referrals: Self-referrals are welcome. Walk-ins are ok. You may also start an application over the phone.

Bringing Our Families Together (Spirit of the Children): The Bringing Our Families Together Program (BOFT) provides supportive supervision for parents and children in care. The unique aspect of the program, in addition to supervision, is the supportive visitation workers providing guidance, parenting skills, and cultural teachings to the parents during the visit when challenging situations and/or discussion arise (that may be a barrier for the parents). This guided support is done in a cultural approach with the goal of strengthening their Traditional knowledge as parents. All referrals are submitted by a MCFD case social worker. Contact: see below.
Family Strengthening Workers (Spirit of the Children): Provides a supportive environment to Indigenous families experiencing life challenges. They assist families in creating, or increasing, natural and extended family supports in the community and to assist families in developing specific strategies in dealing with family challenges. The FSW will support the Indigenous cultural spiritual beliefs and value systems of the families and will empower families to effectively meet their needs. Registration required. Contact: see below.

Surrey

Surrey Native Courtworker Program

Native Courtworker & Counselling Association of British Columbia

Office location: Surrey

Description: For over 40 years, Native Courtworkers have helped Indigenous people navigate the criminal justice system. There are Native Courtworkers located around the province, covering approximately 70% of the provincial courts. They work with the various officers of the court, communities and service providers to assist Indigenous people in contact with the justice system to receive fair, equitable and culturally sensitive treatment within that challenging system.

Programs & Services: Native Courtworkers assist Indigenous accused by providing timely and accurate information at the earliest possible opportunity and at all stages of the criminal justice process. We provide information about the nature and consequences of the charge; your rights, responsibilities and options under the law including alternative justice processes (if available); the philosophy and functioning of the criminal justice system, and of alternative justice processes (if available); court procedures; and the disposition or direction given by the court or community to the offender. Additionally, Native Courtworkers:

- Provide Indigenous accused with appropriate referral to legal resources (as available and where practical);
- Refer Indigenous accused to appropriate social, education, employment, medical and other resources to enable them to address the underlying problems which contribute to their charges and, where appropriate, follow-up on these referrals;
- Liaise between Indigenous accused and criminal justice personnel to help overcome communication barriers and reduce Indigenous alienation from the criminal justice system. This may include being available to provide appropriate information to the court and/or speaking on behalf of the accused;
- Inform justice officials about the cultural traditions, values, languages, socio-economic conditions and other concerns of the Indigenous community and the perspective of Indigenous accused. Initiate further understanding when required;
- Promote understanding within the Indigenous community, of the existing criminal justice system and alternative justice processes;
- Promote and facilitate community-based justice initiatives and help build community capacity to identify and address problems, which could end up in the courts or community justice system.

Fraser Region Aboriginal Friendship Centre Association

Location: Many offices are located in Surrey however please note that FRAFCA offices and programs are spread across the Fraser Salish region.

Description: The Fraser Region Aboriginal Friendship Centre Association (FRAFCA) is British Columbia’s newest Friendship Centre. We received our designation on November 12, 2012. As an organization, we are often a first point of contact for Indigenous people seeking services and supports. To this end, we are working to build a continuum of care for people from birth to death and welcome feedback and guidance from our members on new programs and new roads we should take. Moreover, we work in a culturally relevant and safe way, honouring the diverse lived experiences of Indigenous people who come from nations across Turtle Island. Our approach and philosophy consist in bridging the best of both Western and Traditional knowledge to provide a place of support, healing, and advocacy. We also celebrate Indigenous identity and worldview - which is often lacking in mainstream services and work very hard to ensure that our community is treated in a fair and respectful way.

Programs & Services (Please note that FRAFCA is spread across many locations that focus on different services):

All Nations Youth Safe House (ANYSH): ANYSH offers a 30-day home-like space that is safe, comfortable and caring when youth ages 16-18 are enduring times of hardship. ANYSH is staffed 24-hours a day, 7 days a week, even Christmas and New Year’s. Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal youth are welcomed. Self-referrals welcomed.

Bella Bella

Heiltsuk Gvi’las Community Justice Program
Indigenous Justice Strategy Program (Justice Canada & BC Corrections)
Location: Bella Bella
Description: The mission of the Heiltsuk Gvi’las Restorative Justice Program is to build capacity and connectivity within the Heiltsuk community in ways that positively prevent and respond to conflict and harm. This is done through Heiltsuk value-based processes that engage Elders, adults, and youth. We recognize the importance of working together with local and out-of-town resources and have developed the best practices of collaboration. This process benefits our organization in all aspects and opens many doors to work together in the best interest of our clients.

Programs & Services

Adult Program: Services include but are not limited to bail, probation and parole monitoring; a land-based isolation program; diversion and alternative measures programming; restorative justice circles; coordination of community work service; coordination and facilitation of culturally relevant healing plans; and ceremony.

Youth Program: Heiltsuk Gvi’ilas Community Justice Program assists with the monitoring of young offenders under the supervision of the Youth Probation office of the Ministry of Children and Family Development. Additional services for youth include: extrajudicial sanctions and extrajudicial measures, diversion, restorative justice circles, healing circles, community work service, and ceremony. Intervention and prevention programming are an important part of our work to support Heiltsuk youth.

Community Justice Forums (Restorative Justice Circles): Heiltsuk Gvi’ilas provides a safe, controlled environment in which an offender, victim and their families or supporters are brought together under the guidance of our Restorative Justice Committee, which includes heads of families, Elders, Hereditary Chiefs and key resource staff. Together they discuss the offence, how they have all been affected, and jointly develop a plan to correct what has occurred. Offenders must accept responsibility for their own actions in a way that demonstrates transparency and accountability. They are confronted with how their behavior affected the victim personally. The conversations are often difficult and emotional and a neutral, impartial and well-trained facilitator is present to guide the conversation. Mentors guide the offender and supports are provided to the victim. Each is encouraged to speak openly, honestly and fully. Together the group sets out a plan that will satisfy the needs of everyone. Sometimes it is enough for the offender to apologize and return what was taken or fix what was broken. Agreements may also include community service work, counselling, or addictions treatment for the offender. Completed healing plans may be marked by a ceremony welcoming the person back into the community.

Criminal Courts Support: Heiltsuk Gvi’ilas works closely with the Native Courtworkers and Counselling Society of BC to help clients navigate the criminal courts and law, including assistance with criminal court applications and referrals to the appropriate agencies. We help individuals understand the process of the criminal justice system and court orders. We hold healing circles, and promote cultural awareness, prevention awareness and interventions.

Additional programs & services: Respectful Relationships course (BC Corrections); Substance Abuse Management course (BC Corrections); Victim Services Worker; Probation Case Aide; Youth Outreach Worker & Preventive Programming; Gladue Report Support and Coordination (upon request); Intervention Support & Coordination; Child & Family Support; Family Meetings; Mediation.

Referrals: The program unites multiple agencies in building capacity and connectivity within the Heiltsuk community to prevent and respond to conflict and harm. Nuxalk Restorative Justice Program
Indigenous Justice Strategy Program (Justice Canada & BC Corrections)

Location: Nuxalk Nation / Bella Coola

Description: The program's overall goal is to implement the restorative justice program framework into the Nuxalk First Nation community and the mainstream justice system. The NRJP uses police and Crown-based diversion/alternative measures, as well as input into sentencing decisions, to provide the windows for the Nuxalk Nation to assume greater responsibility for administering justice to its people and for developing more culturally relevant and effective resolutions to conflict.

Programs & Services

Alternative Measures/Extrajudicial Sanctions: Alternative Measures/Extrajudicial Sanctions offer youth/adults accused of a criminal offence the opportunity to take responsibility for their behaviour and address the harm that has been committed. These youth/adults participate in a program that resolves cases within a community agency or with community participation. Alternative measures/extrajudicial sanctions are a way to address crime in conjunction with the criminal justice system. These programs attempt to deal with criminal behaviour in a proactive manner. These programs attempt to balance the needs of victims, the accused and their communities; and ensure that society is protected. The decision about which offenders are eligible for these programs is made by the Crown Prosecutor, although police, defense lawyers, the victim or the accused may request a referral to an alternative measures program.

Peacemaking Circles: A resolution process for healing relationships and keeping them healthy, Peacemaking Circles explore how communities can respond to crimes in ways that address the needs and interests of all those affected – victims, offenders, their families and friends, and the community. Based on Indigenous teachings combined with research in conflict resolution, the Circle process improves relationships, addresses underlying cause, and enhances individual and community self-reliance. Circles are used in a variety of settings such as workplaces, government, justice systems, schools, and communities. The circle process can serve many purposes, including: dialogue, learning, community and team building, strategic planning, conflict resolution and healing.

Community Justice Forums (CJF): This model is used by the RCMP and provides a safe, controlled environment in which an offender, victim and their families or supporters are brought together under the guidance of a trained facilitator. Together they discuss the offence, how they have all been affected, and jointly develop a plan to correct what has occurred. Offenders must accept responsibility for their own actions. They are confronted with how their behavior affected the victim personally - and they hear it directly from their victim. The conversations are often difficult and emotional, so a neutral, impartial and well-trained facilitator is present to guide the conversation. Each is encouraged to speak openly, honestly and fully. Together they create a plan that will satisfy the needs of everyone. Sometimes it is enough for the offender to apologize and return what was taken or fix what was broken. Other agreements may include: community service work, counselling, or addictions treatment for the offender.

Additional Programs & Services monitoring of youth and adults on probation; community referrals; monitoring and coordination of community work hours; input into healing plans and sentencing options; assistance with legal forms and paperwork.

Referrals: Referrals are generally made through Adult and Youth Probation Officers. RCMP and Crown Counsel may also refer, as may members of the Nuxalk Nation, Chief & Council and local schools.

North Vancouver Chet wa nexwníw ta S7eḵw’í7tel Indigenous Court
Provincial Court of British Columbia
Location: North Vancouver
Description: First Nations Courts are criminal sentencing courts that use restorative justice and traditional ways to reach balance and healing. First Nations Courts focus on balancing rehabilitation, accountability, and healing. With the advice of Elders and your community, the judge creates a healing plan to help restore your mental, physical, spiritual, and emotional health. You might still be sentenced to jail. If you’re sentenced to jail, the judge must still consider your unique circumstances in their decision. The Elders Justice Council is an active part of the Indigenous Court process, helping clients create a healing plan that addresses the factors that led them into the justice system. The Elders hold monthly business meetings and participate in all sittings of the Prince George Indigenous Court. (Source: Legal Services Society)

North Vancouver Native Courtworker Program

Native Courtworker & Counselling Association of British Columbia

Office location: North Vancouver

Description: For over 40 years, Native Courtworkers have helped Indigenous people navigate the criminal justice system. There are Native Courtworkers located around the province, covering approximately 70% of the provincial courts. They work with the various officers of the court, communities and service providers to assist Indigenous people in contact with the justice system to receive fair, equitable and culturally sensitive treatment within that challenging system.

Programs & Services: Native Courtworkers assist Indigenous accused by providing timely and accurate information at the earliest possible opportunity and at all stages of the criminal justice process. We provide information about the nature and consequences of the charge; your rights, responsibilities and options under the law including alternative justice processes (if available); the philosophy and functioning of the criminal justice system, and of alternative justice processes (if available); court procedures; and the disposition or direction given by the court or community to the offender. Additionally, Native Courtworkers:

- Provide Indigenous accused with appropriate referral to legal resources (as available and where practical);
- Refer Indigenous accused to appropriate social, education, employment, medical and other resources to enable them to address the underlying problems which contribute to their charges and, where appropriate, follow-up on these referrals;
- Liaise between Indigenous accused and criminal justice personnel to help overcome communication barriers and reduce Indigenous alienation from the criminal justice system. This may include being available to provide appropriate information to the court and/or speaking on behalf of the accused;
- Inform justice officials about the cultural traditions, values, languages, socio-economic conditions and other concerns of the Indigenous community and the perspective of Indigenous accused. Initiate further understanding when required;
- Promote understanding within the Indigenous community, of the existing criminal justice system and alternative justice processes;
- Promote and facilitate community-based justice initiatives and help build community capacity to identify and address problems, which could end up in the courts or community justice system.

Vancouver

Vancouver Aboriginal Transformative Justice Services Society
Indigenous Justice Strategy Program (Justice Canada & BC Corrections)
Location: Metro Vancouver
Description: The main objectives of the VATJSS program are to offer a structure that fosters our Indigenous protocols and way of life to repair relationships among those affected by crime: the victim, the accused, their families, and the community. We aim to empower individuals to identify behaviours & patterns that have led to crime; identify new responses and strategies to deal with the crime; and participate directly in processes that improve the overall well-being of the community. Our services are grounded in a non-adversarial, non-retributive approach to justice that emphasizes healing, meaningful accountability and the involvement of community in creating a healthier and safer community.

Programs & Services

Indigenous Homeless Outreach Program: A disproportionate number of individuals who are homeless are Indigenous, and outreach workers have indicated it is necessary to address this in a way that recognizes their unique cultural and social needs. The Indigenous Homeless Outreach Program aims to reduce the number of Indigenous individuals who are homeless by providing direct access to immediate housing. Our outreach workers also help clients make linkages to supportive services that address our clients’ health and cultural needs. Our program offers outreach services for chronically homeless, urban and rural Indigenous people who are living off-reserve. In particular, the program focuses on individuals who are street-entrenched or who have been homeless for longer periods of time.

Diversion Unit: The Diversion Unit’s Justice Coordinator receives referrals from Crown Counsel for alternative measures (adults) and extra-judicial sanctions (youth). The Vancouver Police Department and RCMP may also refer to our Diversion Unit, which works closely with our Indigenous Homeless Outreach Program and many specialized service providers in Metro Vancouver. Our Indigenous Resource Worker receives referrals from BC Community Corrections, assisting adults complete bail and probation orders in the community. Our Indigenous Resource Worker works closely with our Indigenous Homeless Outreach Program and many specialized service providers in Metro Vancouver. The Diversion Unit is served by a community council forum made up of volunteers, an Elder, the victim, the accused, and the support people for the victim and the accused to discuss the offence, its effects, and the causes of the behaviour that led to the offence. At the conclusion of the forum, a healing plan is developed with the goal of making amends and positively moving the accused towards stability and purpose. The healing plan is tailored to the needs and circumstances of the accused consisting of various options such as alcohol & drug counselling, employment training, community service, housing needs, etc.

Diversion Unit Referrals: Vancouver Downtown Community Court (DCC), Vancouver Provincial Court (“222 Main Street”), Crown Counsel, Ministry of Children and Family Development Youth Probation, RCMP, Vancouver Police Department, Self-referrals through a Lawyer or Crown, and BC Community Corrections.

Downtown Community Court Aboriginal Case Worker

Native Courtworker & Counselling Association of British Columbia

Office location: Vancouver - Downtown Community Court (DCC)
Service Area: Downtown Community Court

Description: Vancouver opened the doors to the new Downtown Community Court (DCC) in the fall of 2008. The Downtown Community Court brings together justice, health and social services. As a member of the Downtown Community Court team, the Aboriginal Case Worker ensures that all Indigenous participants’ needs are met and that clients are treated in a culturally appropriate manner. The Aboriginal Case Worker acts as an intermediary between the accused and the criminal justice system, providing case management and supervision of clients in the community and helping clients meet court requirements through culturally appropriate services. The Case Worker helps you understand your rights, obligations, court processes, cultural considerations and support. The Case Worker will increase awareness of court officials and the judiciary about legal and social resources that are available to Indigenous accused.

In addition to individual case management, the Aboriginal Case Worker provides these services:
- Increases linkages between communities, organizations and individuals and the justice system;
- Increases consideration of relevant factors (cultural and other) by court officials and the judiciary;
- Enhances legislation, policies, services and processes affecting Indigenous people before the courts;
- Ensures Indigenous accused receive fair, equitable and culturally sensitive treatment by the criminal justice system.

Description: The Vancouver Aboriginal Friendship Centre (VAFCS), a charitable organization, provides programs in health, welfare, social services, human rights, culture, education, recreation and equality for all genders of Aboriginal people of all age groups. The Friendship Centre emphasizes the philosophies and values of varied Aboriginal cultures and traditions. With over 50 years of providing essential services to the urban Aboriginal community, our Society has helped families, youth, adults, Elders and children maintain their Aboriginal cultural ties and values. VAFCS has also helped Aboriginal people access education, housing needs and support for families. The Friendship Centre strives to provide holistic and cultural services to all of its community members.

Programs & Services
Urban Aboriginal Navigation Team & Community Navigator Project
Funded by Reaching Home: Canada’s Homelessness Strategy
Description: Our integrated teams work hard to provide a coordinated, one-stop shop for Indigenous clients experiencing absolute, hidden, at-risk, chronic or episodic homelessness. We use what is called a “coordinated access” model, which is a community-wide system that streamlines a low-barrier process for people experiencing homelessness so that they can access housing and supports in a faster and more supportive way. We assist with housing, employment, social assistance matters, and counselling, and make referrals to partner agencies for further supportive services. Our staff can assist clients who need to complete a VAT (Vulnerability Assessment Tool) needs assessment to get into housing. We also deliver the Rent Smart certificate course; life-skills training; employment workshops, naloxone and harm-reduction training (Indigenous & Western); high-school outreach; and ceremony. Here are the main components of our homelessness programming:

Community Navigator Project: Designed to meet the specific needs of Indigenous peoples in the Metro Vancouver region who are experiencing absolute, hidden, at-risk, chronic or episodic homelessness, and for individuals or families who are new to the area or already living in the area. The program is designed to enhance programming already in place at the Friendship Centre with the addition of community resources information and connections to employment skills & training opportunities; educational resources; affordable food / clothing / furniture sources, healthy lifestyle support services, and cultural activities. Community housing support services include:
- Creating a housing plan;
- Locating an emergency shelter;
- Filling out applications for housing;
- Referrals to Tenant Landlord Community Program;
- Referrals to Housing Subsidy Program (support such as rental subsidies, arrears, damage deposit, temporary storage, and other emergency needs based on complete intake application and eligibility).

Housing & Cultural Support Program: The Housing Outreach Worker (HOW) engages with unsheltered individuals dealing with homelessness, and provides support services to assist in housing placement. This includes screening potential candidates for appropriate housing programs, overseeing / conducting the application process, conducting housing searches, placement into housing and ensuring transition to a Housing First team or other appropriate support services so that the individual can remain housed.

Cultural Outreach Worker: The Cultural Worker provides client care to urban Indigenous individuals who are experiencing absolute, hidden, at-risk, chronic or episodic homelessness. This is support for personal development, including services to assist in healing for individuals, families and our urban Aboriginal community. Individuals develop a network of culturally appropriate approaches and programs that will assist people to secure the supports and resources to ease their suffering and to move away from the harmful effects of colonization, intergenerational and direct effects of residential school and homelessness.

The TLC Project (Tenant-Landlord-Community Relations): The TLC Project is a Tenant-Landlord-Community Relations project that seeks to close the existing gaps in safe and affordable housing for Aboriginal individuals and families who are or are at risk of being homeless. We are working with families and landlords to:
- Find new housing sources;
- Develop relationships with landlords;
- Connect tenants with landlords to increase access to safe, affordable housing;
- Provide support and access to resources to help tenants maintain and sustain their housing.

Services for clients include increased access to housing, tenant advocacy, and life-skills workshops to support clients to maintain and sustain housing. The life-skills workshops cover financial management, ready-to-rent training and home search techniques. The program can also assist with living expenses upon approval, i.e. furniture, dishes, food, emergencies or damage and repairs, tenant insurance, etc. Services for landlords include: a point of contact for landlords, support in tenant / landlord mediation, matching of housing type to tenant / landlord need.

Skeena House

Description: Skeena House is a housing center that offers services to 54 tenants in a unique partnership with the Vancouver Aboriginal Friendship Centre Society (VAFCS) and the 201 Central Shelter. Tenants are provided with supports and nutrition assistance, opportunities for training and employment, as well as in-house, holistic workshops and cultural activities. Free parking is available for tenants. Second-stage housing for Indigenous peoples. VATs (Vulnerability Assessment Tools) are available. Pet-friendly. Applicants and referrals meet with Outreach or the Community Navigator for an interview.

The Aboriginal Shelter
The Shelter is a mat and blanket program operated by the Vancouver Aboriginal Friendship Centre Society since January 12, 2009 and located at another facility. There is zero tolerance to violence and use of alcohol and/or illegal drugs at the Aboriginal Shelter. The Aboriginal Shelter is open to all cultures to people age 19 years and older on a first come, first served basis. There is space for 100 clients with separated areas for males and females. Doors open at 4:30pm. When signed in, clients receive a blanket and mat and two meal tickets. Doors are closed at 11pm and from this point, there are no in and out privileges. Pets are allowed.

Address: 201 Central Street, which is close to the Main Street Skytrain Station.

The Urban Aboriginal HIPPY Navigation Project: The Aboriginal HIPPY Program acknowledges that the history of colonialism and legacy of residential schools have deeply impacted Indigenous families and communities by disrupting caregiving and parent-child interaction. The traditional role of mothers and caregivers was to guide, mentor, and educate their communities’ children and, with this cultural nurturing disrupted, early development of Indigenous children was negatively affected. Aboriginal HIPPY recognizes the power of the parent as a child’s first and best teacher. This program is a partnership between Mothers Matter Centre (Home of HIPPY Canada) in collaboration with Vancouver Aboriginal Friendship Centre Society, Helping Spirit Lodge Society, Cedar Cottage Neighborhood House, and Mount Pleasant Neighborhood House.

Indigenous Outpatient Addictions Counselling & Indigenous Detox Support & Follow-Up Programs (520 Richards Street)
Native Courtworker and Counselling Association of British Columbia
Location: 520 Richards Street Vancouver

Programs & Services
Indigenous Outpatient Addictions Counselling
Description: Our counselling services are based on clients taking a journey around the Medicine Wheel to find wellness and themselves. The goal of our care is to decrease substance use and misuse, improve health, decrease legal problems, improve thinking and social functioning, and improve self-esteem and coping abilities. We provide help for addicts, co-dependents, and their families who are suffering from the injustices of addiction. Our counselling services are client-centered, meaning that participants decide on what their wellness looks like and what they need to do to achieve it. Participants have the opportunity to attend a variety of strength-based groups. Each designed to allow participants to support each other in finding ways to overcome their barriers and obstacles to wellness. Our Alcohol and Drug team can:
- Help you address substance use and misuse issues;
- Provide one-to-one adult, youth, family and group counselling;
- Provide crisis intervention counselling;
- Make referrals to detox centres, rehabilitation and residential treatment centres;
- Make referrals to education institutions, pre-employment and life-skills training programs;
- Provide follow-up and after-care treatment;
- Help you network with other agencies.

Eligibility & Referrals: The program is open to individuals with substance abuse/misuse issues. Participants must be 19 years or older. Participants must also be willing to attend all necessary sessions and groups; willing to do the work necessary to heal themselves; and willing to be substance free during groups and counselling sessions.

Service area: Vancouver and Metro Vancouver (Vancouver Coastal Health).

Indigenous Detox Support & Follow-Up Program / Detox Support Workers

Description: Our Detox Support Workers are here to assist you in making the transition from withdrawal towards a drug-free lifestyle. Utilizing an Assertive Community Treatment methodology, we facilitate the client’s change process through providing appropriate support, helping the client meet their goals, address their addiction issues, and improve their quality of life. Our Detox Support Workers help clients develop a Client Action Plan that is suitable to their personal needs. The Client Action Plan addresses shelter / housing, food, laundry and showers, as these are basic issues that clients face after detox. Secondary issues include: connecting clients to drug and alcohol counselling, AA Meetings, NA Meetings, and sponsors. This builds the support network our clients will rely on in the community. Clients who are in conflict with the law are connected with our Native Court workers. Clients are provided with access to Elders and are also able to take part in safety planning, treatment planning, wellness and recovery planning, smudging, talking circles, wellbriety, sweat lodges & medicine-wheel making.

Eligibility & Referrals: Self-referrals are welcome. Some of our referrals come from Vancouver Coastal Health (VCH) Withdrawal Management Services (WMS) and we accept referrals from other agencies as well.

Service area: Vancouver and Metro Vancouver (Vancouver Coastal Health).

Directions Youth Services Centre (DYSC)
Location: Vancouver

Description: Directions Youth Services (a division of Family Services of Greater Vancouver) offers low-barrier programs and services to support youth under the age of 25 who are in crisis or experiencing homelessness as a result of abuse, neglect, substance use, or mental health challenges. When youth come to us at Directions, they are typically facing multiple barriers to accessing healthcare, housing and employment. Besides homelessness, these youth often experience health issues associated with poverty, social marginalization and isolation, and violence. Our clients have all experienced trauma, and often need comprehensive supports and compassionate care to increase their stabilization. We welcome and serve all youth.
Programs & Services

Directions Youth Services Drop-In Centre (1138 Burrard Street): Our Drop-In Centre is BC’s only 24/7/365, low-barrier service for youth. All youth under 25 years old, experiencing homelessness, sleeping rough, or precariously housed can visit our Drop-In Services Centre and:
- Eat a hot meal or snack;
- Take a shower;
- Do your laundry;
- See a doctor (no appointment or ID required);
- Get help finding housing;
- Get paid work and experience;
- Get support with income assistance, social workers, school, health care, counselling, detox, and more;
- Get care, housing and food for your pet;
- Talk to someone who will listen;
- Rest and be safe.

Transitions for Youth to Adulthood - Youth 16 to 19 (DYSC): Transitioning from youth into adulthood can be a scary and vulnerable time for those in the best of circumstances, and even harder when young people are forced to face this change alone. Transitions for Youth to Adulthood (TYA) supports young people aged 16 to 19 whose support services from the Ministry of Child and Family Development are coming to an end. Through our TYA programming, youth who are aging out of ministry care are provided with the chance to work with a Transition Worker to develop the skills, supports and safety they need to live independently as young adults. Youth reach our program through the Ministry and are supported to meet their self-identified goals most often related to the following topics:
- Finding housing;
- Exploring education and/or employment opportunities;
- Addressing substance misuse;
- Addressing medical issues and/or mental health related concerns;
- Developing life-skills (eg. shopping, cooking, laundry, house cleaning, self-care, etc.);
- Connecting with community supports;
- Obtaining identification;
- Opening a bank account and developing financial literacy skills;
- Building positive relationships;
- Navigating legal systems.

10K Supportive Housing program - Youth 16 to 19 (DYSC): The 10K Supportive Housing program, located on the 10th floor of the Kettle on Burrard, offers ten, self-contained bachelor apartments to youth aged 16 to 19 who are involved with the Ministry of Children and Family Development. Youth who are referred to our program come from various backgrounds, each with their own individual stories, assets, barriers and needs. As a result, while residing at 10K youth will be supported as individuals by a team of qualified staff, who work to create tailored goals and facilitate the learning of daily life skills. Our staff also offer friendly connection at a time that may feel isolating and lonely. Our program often supports youth in exploring and addressing goals in various areas of their life including education, employment, primary, mental health care and substance misuse, healthy relationships, budgeting and financial literacy as well as the skills required for living independently like cooking and cleaning. At 10K, we strive to meet youth where they are at with the ultimate goal of transitioning youth into an adult life which fosters safety and sustainable independence.

Lu’re Native Housing Society

Location: Vancouver

Description: Lu’ma Native Housing Society was incorporated in 1980 to provide affordable housing to Aboriginal families and individuals with low to moderate income. The Society currently owns and operates an affordable housing portfolio of just under 500 units of housing. Though our primary focus is to build, own and operate affordable housing, we have evolved as a Society and now provide a broad range of services that improve social determinants of health such as: Lu’ma Medical Centre; the Aboriginal Patients’ Lodge; Community Voice Mail; the Aboriginal Children’s Village; and Aboriginal Youth Mentorship & Housing Program.

Programs & Services

Lu’ma Native Housing (Aboriginal Housing Management Association): We encourage applicants to apply to as many affordable housing providers as you can as early as you can. There are dozens of affordable housing societies and hundreds of affordable housing buildings in the Greater Vancouver Regional District. There are many individuals and families on Lu’ma’s waitlist for housing with subsidy. People often wait many years before obtaining subsidized housing.

Eligibility: To apply for housing with Lu’ma Native Housing Society at least fifty percent (50%) of the applicant’s family must be of Aboriginal ancestry. This includes First Nations, Aboriginal, Inuit and Métis persons who may be status or non-Status. Eligibility is evaluated on an individual basis through assessment of income, family size, health, current housing conditions, student status etc.

Phone: 604-876-0811
Lu’ma Aboriginal Youth Mentorship: Our mandate to provide Aboriginal youth with mentorship and housing and to support the transition from foster care to adulthood. We strive to connect our youth to community and adult allies and be the extended family that our youth often do not have. It is of utmost importance that our program delivery be made up of youth-driven initiatives that are both flexible and adaptable to the current needs of the youth we are working with, both in group work and through each youth’s individual plan. We meet over 120 times a year in workshops, field trips and one-to-one mentorship sessions to build community connections both Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal assisting each youth in 12 key development areas.

UBC Indigenous Community Law Clinic
Location: Vancouver, Downtown Eastside
Description: The Indigenous Community Legal Clinic is located in the Downtown Eastside on traditional, ancestral, and unceded Coast Salish territories, and exists for two purposes: first, to provide free legal services to the Indigenous community and second, to provide legal education to Allard School of Law students. By participating in the ICLC program, students interested in advocacy, social justice and Indigenous peoples can gain practical experience and make a meaningful contribution to a historically underserved and marginalized community. The ICLC provides students with the opportunity to gain practical hands-on experience managing client files and making court appearances.

Programs & Services: The Indigenous Community Legal Clinic provides free legal representation for those persons who qualify for legal assistance and have a legal issue that falls under the jurisdiction of the British Columbia provincial courts. Please note we do not provide full legal representation in Supreme Court matters. Examples of cases dealt with at the ICLC include, but are not limited to:
- administrative and civil law matters
- criminal matters
- Aboriginal law/Indigenous legal issues
- family law matters
- child protection
- human rights complaints
- letters of administration
- police complaints
- divorce assistance (in limited and specific circumstances)

Eligibility: Legal services provided by the ICLC are provided to those persons who self-identify as Indigenous persons and who qualify financially for legal assistance, if at the time of application, the ICLC has the resources needed to assist the client. Clients may be asked in confidence to provide the ICLC with information about their income and assets to determine whether the client is eligible.

Kwayatsut - Youth Housing Program

Broadway Youth Resource Centre & Vancouver Native Housing Society

Location: Vancouver

Description: Kwayatsut youth housing is a two-year supported-housing program. Kwayatsut is a partnership between Pacific Community Resources Society and Vancouver Native Housing that provides housing to 30 youth in a supported environment. Kwayatsut (K-why-ah-sote) is from the Coast Salish language and holds the meaning of seeking one’s power or spirit quest. Program participants will receive the support of a Broadway Youth Resource Centre (BYRC) housing worker to help them meet their housing, personal, and life-skills goals, and they will be assisted in transitioning to their next phase of housing when their time in the program ends.

Eligibility: Our program offers ten suites for Aboriginal youth aged 17-24; ten suites for LGBTQ2S youth aged 17-24); and ten suites for youth under the age of 19 who are in the care of the Ministry of Children and Family Development.

Application: Applicants must fill out a BYRC housing program application form. Selected candidates will be interviewed by a panel of BYRC and BC Housing staff members before being accepted into the program. Generally, there is a one-to-two-year waiting period. The waitlist is normally opened for three months at a time. See the Pacific Community Resources Society website (listed below) for the application and the waitlist.

Website: https://pcrs.ca/service-types/housing/ (Note: click on the “Vancouver Youth Housing Program” tab).

Urban Native Youth Association (UNYA)

Location: Vancouver

Description: Urban Native Youth Association (UNYA) is the centre of Indigenous youth excellence, supporting youth on their journeys by amplifying and celebrating their voices. We recognize that a one-size-fits-all approach does not work best for our youth. The philosophies of two-eyed seeing, culture as therapy, trauma-informed care, harm reduction, and person-centred care provide a framework that shapes all decisions in how we interact with and respond to youth across programs. Urban Native Youth Association (UNYA) was formed in 1988 to address concerns facing Indigenous youth, at a time when growing numbers of young people began leaving reserves for the city. Thirty years later, young people continue to arrive in Vancouver with few job skills, minimal training or education, and little or no knowledge of where to go for help. UNYA is meeting these needs by providing a wide range of services, resources, and opportunities that support Vancouver’s Indigenous youth to excel. Today, UNYA delivers 20+ programs, with 175+ volunteers, 100 staff, and more than 300 community partners.

Programs & Services

Native Youth Health & Wellness Centre (UNYA): UNYA’s Native Youth Health and Wellness Centre (NYHWC) is a youth clinic providing culturally-relevant, welcoming, accessible health and wellness services to Indigenous youth from ages 12 to 30. (Note: some programs are only open to youth age 25-30 on a case-by-case basis – call for more information). Our youth clinic is a safe, accessible health centre, where you can feel comfortable accessing services and programs that support your physical, mental, emotional, and spiritual health. At the Native Youth Health and Wellness Centre, you can access the services and support of our Nurse Practitioner, Clinical Counsellors, Elders, and Registered Midwives.

Referrals: All services, programming, and resources at our youth clinic are free. You can access services by appointment or drop-in, and you are always welcome to stop in and learn more about what we offer and how we can support you. Family, community members, or other service providers are welcome to accompany you to make an initial introduction to the clinic.

Mediation Program (UNYA): The Mediation Program empowers Indigenous youth ages 13 to 18 by offering the support and resources you need to positively resolve conflicts or misunderstandings in your life. Our clinical counsellor works with you, and others in your life (identified by you), to encourage and facilitate discussions so that you can find solutions to problems before they become crises. When you are involved in a disagreement or conflict with others in your life, mediation offers you the opportunity to meet face-to-face in a safe and neutral place. The foundation of the mediation program is teaching positive communication and problem-solving skills. With this foundation, we facilitate conversations that can help you stay at or return home, remain in school or training, and positively interact with your family, friends, and peers.

Referrals: This is a voluntary program for Indigenous youth ages 13 to 18. You can self-refer or be referred by someone else, as long as you are aware of and agree to the referral. Family members can also directly access the support and resources of this program, to work with our counsellor on issues affecting Indigenous youth in their lives.
Young Bears Lodge (UNYA): Young Bears Lodge is a culturally-based, holistic healing lodge for Indigenous youth looking to make changes to their relationship with drugs or alcohol. Young Bears Lodge is a live-in program, with five spots for Indigenous youth of all genders, ages 13 to 18. You may choose to stay in the program for between one and four months, depending on your needs and goals. We recognize that everyone is unique, and that you come to Young Bears Lodge with your own strengths, knowledge, skills, preferences, goals, and barriers. We also know that you are the expert in your own life, and are knowledgeable, responsible, and capable of making good choices. Because of this, we provide you with support and resources that are individualized, with programming and services that are designed to adapt and support different needs.

Referrals: Young Bears Lodge serves Indigenous youth ages 13 to 18. You can self-refer to the program, or be referred by your family, or agencies within the Vancouver Coastal Health Authority region, as long as you are aware of and receptive to the referral.

Clinical Counsellors (UNYA): Our counsellors will help you recognize and positively deal with issues affecting your mental wellbeing. This could be anything affecting the way you think, feel, or act. The support our counsellors provide is non-judgmental, and can help you with handling stress, making decisions, and dealing with issues related to drugs, alcohol, relationships, family, friends, gender identity, sexuality, or with anything else that you're struggling with. They will take into account your own personal needs and goals, in a way that's culturally relevant to you. Our counsellors also run group sessions and workshops, at UNYA and with other community organizations. These cover a wide range of topics, including substance use, healthy relationships, parenting, and mental health.

Referrals: UNYA's clinical counsellors offer individual counselling to Indigenous youth ages 13 to 24. Call or email us to make an appointment, through the contact info below. Our intake counsellor works on Mondays, and will respond to your message and connect you with a counsellor as soon as possible. We also have counselling drop-in hours at the Native Youth Health and Wellness Centre - see our calendar on the programs page for drop-in hours. Other people can refer you to our counsellors (for example, a parent, guardian, family member, or youth worker), as long as you are aware of and agree to the referral.

Aboriginal Youth Safehouse (UNYA): UNYA’s Aboriginal Youth Safehouse (ASH) is a voluntary, short-term, live-in program for youth ages 16 to 18 who do not have a safe place to stay. ASH is a supportive, non-judgmental place where you can focus on your own goals and work towards making positive change. At ASH, we work to build community around you, to offer you more stability and access to support. Our youth workers will connect you to resources, help you with goal planning, and help you move on to safe, stable, long-term housing, with new connections to community resources for ongoing stability and support.

Referrals: UNYA’s Aboriginal Youth Safehouse is open to youth ages 16 to 18 of all backgrounds who do not have a safe place to stay. We accept referrals from youth or from service providers 24 hours a day, seven days a week.

UNYA Kinnections Mentoring Program - Ages 16 to 19: UNYA's Kinnections Mentoring Program matches Indigenous youth ages 16 to 19 with trained volunteer mentors. Our mentors help you realize your strengths, work towards your goals, and build your confidence and independence. Your mentor will be a supportive, caring, and stable role model, advocate, and friend, who can help you with setting goals and obtaining the life-skills you'll need as an adult. Mentorship in the Kinnections program is an opportunity to form a trusting relationship with a non-judgmental, encouraging adult who you can talk to, try new activities with, and go to for advice. Your mentor can also provide support as you transition to living independently as an adult.

Eligibility & Referrals: You can identify your own mentor, or we can connect you with a volunteer through the program. To participate in this program, you must be willing to commit to meeting for two to four hours per week for at least one year. Indigenous youth ages 16 to 19 can self-refer or be referred by someone else, as long as you are aware of and receptive to the referral. You'll be matched with a mentor based on need, interests, and overall fit. Priority is given to Ministry of Children and Family Development (MCFD) referrals.

UNYA Mentorship Program - Ages 12 to 15: UNYA's Mentorship Program matches Indigenous youth ages 12 to 15 with trained volunteer mentors. Participating in the Mentorship Program is an opportunity to form a trusting relationship with a non-judgmental, encouraging adult who you can talk to, try new activities with, and go to for advice. Our mentors help you realize your strengths, work towards your goals, and build your confidence and independence. Your mentor will be a supportive, caring, and stable role model, advocate, and friend, who can help you with making positive choices and changes. Volunteer mentors are thoroughly screened and trained before being matched with youth, and throughout the mentorship. Trainings cover topics such as life-skills coaching, conflict resolution, mental health, healthy boundaries, prevention of sexual exploitation, cultural awareness, substance abuse/misuse, and other important areas that may impact Indigenous youth.

Eligibility & Referrals: To participate in this program, you must be willing to commit to meeting your mentor for two to four hours per week for at least one year. Indigenous youth ages 12 to 15 can self-refer or be referred by someone else, as long as youth are aware of and receptive to the referral. Youth and mentors are matched based on need, interests, and overall fit. Priority is given to MCFD referrals (through the MCFD Youth Program Referral Form).

Warriors Against Violence Society

Location: Vancouver

Description: Warriors Against Violence is committed to helping Indigenous families unlearn abusive and violent behaviors and reclaim their traditional values of equality, honor and respect for themselves and others. We believe there is a need to restore the traditional Indigenous values of honour, respect and equality. The Circle of Life includes elders, life-givers, men, and youth. All have a right to live in non-violent families and communities. WAV began as a program for abusive Aboriginal men. Today, we provide services for men, women, families and youth. The organization has been in operation since August, 1998.

Programs & Services: The Warriors Against Violence Society (WAVS) currently delivers adult family group sessions based on intervention and prevention of family violence. We meet twice a week: Monday nights are devoted to learning psychosocial tools for change in co-ed groups. On Thursday, men and women form separate sharing circles, where participants can share their stories and gain positive feedback and support from others. WAVS is a unique program in that we follow a model that includes cultural teachings. By examining the pain of the past and applying the tools provided, participants have an opportunity for a better quality of life.

Eligibility & Referrals: The sessions are open to anyone seeking help with unhealthy relationships, whether you are the victim or the abuser. You just have to show up. Everything is kept confidential in the circles, which are a safe place to share.

Vancouver Native Health Society

Location: Vancouver Downtown Eastside

Description: VNHS quickly grew from its start as an after-hours medical clinic in order to provide services and programs to meet the needs of a client base struggling with overlapping social challenges and concurrent health issues such as substance abuse, mental health, chronic disease, homelessness and poverty. Due to the increasing demand for our services, we have expanded tremendously in all service delivery. Today, VNHS delivers comprehensive medical, counselling and social services generally to Vancouver’s Downtown Eastside Indigenous community.
Programs & Services

Vancouver Native Health Society Medical Clinic: The medical clinic is the gateway for most people who seek life changing help from VNHS and as such, is a vital part of the organization. We are a multidisciplinary comprehensive care clinic responding to the needs of our Indigenous and non-Indigenous community. Our experience has shown that providing integrated, innovative and comprehensive health care can improve patient acceptance of care and treatment outcomes.

Intake & Eligibility: Although we care for many non-Indigenous patients, we are the only clinic in the Downtown Eastside that specifically focuses on the needs of Indigenous peoples. We also see children on Wednesday afternoons and youth on Wednesday evenings. You are welcome to drop by the clinic to determine if we are able to provide you with medical care.

Vancouver Native Housing Society (VNHS)
Location: Vancouver
Description: VNHS was founded in 1984 and currently manages a portfolio of 19 buildings and nearly 900 units. VNHS works in partnership with federal and provincial government agencies to subsidize tenant rent contributions and achieve affordability for individuals and families with low incomes. Although our original and ongoing mandate is to prioritize the housing needs of the urban Indigenous community, we have expanded our operations to include housing solutions for non-Indigenous families and individuals, seniors, youth, women at risk, persons living with mental illness, as well as those who are homeless or at-risk of becoming homeless. Recognizing that providing housing alone is not enough, some VNHS buildings include on-site support services. In all of our housing developments, we strive to help connect our tenants to all available resources in the community when needed.

Eligibility: Applicants must be 19 years or older and have a Total Household Income at or below the Housing Income Limits (HILs) set by BC Housing. Some of our housing is specifically designated for peoples of Indigenous ancestry (applicable to applicant, spouse and/or dependents). Applications for many of our units are now directed through BC Housing. Call or visit our website for more information.

Ahousaht / Maaqutsis

Ahousaht First Nation Chim-an-ah Justice Program
Indigenous Justice Strategy Program (Justice Canada & BC Corrections)
Location: Ahousaht / Maaqutsisii
Description: Chim-an-ah can be translated as “making life better”. The Chim-an-ah Justice Program connects individual healing to the overall health and safety of the Ahousaht community. The program’s objectives include the reintegration of offenders; restoring and strengthening harmony between the offender and the community; and empowering the Ahousaht people to take responsibility for local justice issues, thereby keeping conflict resolution processes out of the mainstream justice system. Our justice program supports processes that integrate our traditional First Nation laws within the mainstream justice system and aims to reduce crime and incarceration rates among community members. Land-based healing is an important part of our program; our facilities include an island retreat where participants may spend time addressing underlying issues in a supportive and healing way. Potential client referrals are assessed by Chim-an-ah’s Community Consultative Group, which is made up of Elder, youth and community members.

Programs & Services

Adult Program: Services include but are not limited to adult bail, probation and parole monitoring; adult diversion and alternative measures programming; restorative justice, healing & peacemaking circles; coordination of community work service; and facilitation of culturally relevant healing plans. Chim-an-ah assists with referrals of sexual offenders to a specialized program run by Nuu-chah-nulth Tribal Council.

Youth Program: Chim-an-ah assists with the healing plans and monitoring of young offenders under the supervision of the Youth Probation office of the Ministry of Children and Family Development. Additional services for youth include: extrajudicial sanctions and extrajudicial measures; restorative justice, peacemaking & healing circles; and supervision of community work service. In conjunction with our community partners, Chim-an-ah provides intervention and prevention programming & services to support youth and families.

Criminal Courts Support: Chim-an-ah’s Justice Worker and Youth Worker help clients navigate the criminal courts and law, including assistance with criminal court applications and referrals to the appropriate agencies. We hold healing circles, and promote cultural awareness of Ahousaht protocols and practices. Upon request, the Justice Worker and the Youth Worker can assist in providing Gladue information to the Courts.

Additional Programs & Services: Ceremony; Workshops (Grief & Loss, Communication), BC Corrections courses (Substance Abuse Management, Respectful Relationships, Living Without Violence, Thinking Leads 2 Change); Court-mandated courses (Parenting After Separation); Anger Management; Sweat Lodges; Prevention Activities; Interventions; Court Accompaniment; Referrals to Other Service Providers & Counsellors.

Website: n/a

Service area: The program is open to the people of Ahousaht and anyone with a connection to the community. Each potential client referral is assessed by Chim-an-ah’s Community Consultative Group. Outside requests for entry into Chim-an-ah’s land-based retreat program are accepted on a case-by-case basis.

Alert Bay / ‘Namgis First Nation

Indigenous Justice Strategy Program (Justice Canada & BC Corrections)
Location: Alert Bay & ‘Namgis First Nation
Description: Alert Bay Community Justice Program is community-driven and centered around ensuring people feel supported through their experience in the judicial or justice system. The program facilitates the resolution of issues, promotes healing and responsible decision-making, and strengthens families and the community by providing responsive, effective and holistic services in a non-judgmental manner. The program coordinates a number of committees and councils within the Whe-La-La-U community, including: the Whe-La-La-U Elders Justice Council, Whe-La-La-U Traditional Justice/Wellness Program and the Whe-La-La-U Youth Council. The overall mandate of Whe-la-la-U Area Council is to revive and restore traditional culture among the Kwakwaka’wakw community; assist with community healing through cultural restoration; and promote, build and maintain facilities for carrying out the above practices. The Alert Bay Community Justice Program also hosts a number of workshops and programs that support and provide resources for community members who wish to seek extra support and engagement.

Programs & Services
Adult Program: Services include but are not limited to adult bail, probation and parole monitoring; adult diversion and alternative measures programming; restorative justice, healing & peacemaking circles; coordination of community work service; and facilitation of culturally relevant healing plans.

Criminal Courts Support: Our Justice Worker will attend first appearance court with community members to help them navigate programs and services in court system (Native Courtworker, Duty Council, Legal Aid, Victims Services, etc.) This includes providing information on programs and services available outside the courtroom and within the community (i.e. Friendship Centre, Healthy Relationships, Salvation Army, counselling services, and more).

‘Namgis Treatment Centre
First Nations Health Authority / National Native Alcohol and Drug Abuse Program

Location: Alert Bay / Cormorant Island
Description: Based on a foundation of our culture and traditions, and respect for individual choices and responsibilities, the mission of the ‘Namgis Treatment Centre is to facilitate the emotional, mental, physical, and spiritual well-being of the people we serve. ‘Namgis Treatment is a six-week program that allows participants to gain a better awareness of themselves.

Programs & Services: To meet the goals of this six-week program, a variety of themes are introduced. The program is designed to ensure maximum flexibility to meet client needs within theme areas. These theme areas include:

- Physiological and psychological effects of mood-altering substances.
- Family dynamics
- Historical influences on substance abuse
- Abstinence from alcohol and addiction as a way of life
- Spirituality
- Self-help programs for after treatment (e.g.: Alcoholics Anonymous, Narcotics Anonymous, Adult Children of Alcoholics)
- Self-awareness in the cycle of change

Trauma: This session introduces clients to the concept of trauma and its long- and short-term effects. During the six weeks, understanding trauma helps in context with the sessions on grieving, suicide in the family, residential school, and family violence. Clients are provided with an opportunity to examine how unresolved trauma contributes to present day negative behavior and coping strategies. Steps to healing from trauma are examined with client input.
Deeper issues of trauma are explored during one to one time or referred to Mental Health Services.

Referrals: Self-referrals are not accepted. Referrals can be made by family physicians, alcohol and drug counsellors, social workers, and other designated agencies.

Admissions Criteria:
Age: 19 and up
Length: 6-week
Opioid Replacement Therapy: No
Family Program: No
Couples Program: No
Gender: Co-ed; Women-only and Men-only

Campbell River Native Courtworker Program
Native Courtworker & Counselling Association of British Columbia
Office location: Campbell River
Description: For over 40 years, Native Courtworkers have helped Indigenous people navigate the criminal justice system. There are Native Courtworkers located around the province, covering approximately 70% of the provincial courts. They work with the various officers of the court, communities and service providers to assist Indigenous people in contact with the justice system to receive fair, equitable and culturally sensitive treatment within that challenging system.

Programs & Services: Native Courtworkers assist Indigenous accused by providing timely and accurate information at the earliest possible opportunity and at all stages of the criminal justice process. We provide information about the nature and consequences of the charge; your rights, responsibilities and options under the law including alternative justice processes (if available); the philosophy and functioning of the criminal justice system, and of alternative justice processes (if available); court procedures; and the disposition or direction given by the court or community to the offender. Additionally, Native Courtworkers:
- Provide Indigenous accused with appropriate referral to legal resources (as available and where practical);
- Refer Indigenous accused to appropriate social, education, employment, medical and other resources to enable them to address the underlying problems which contribute to their charges and, where appropriate, follow-up on these referrals;
- Liaise between Indigenous accused and criminal justice personnel to help overcome communication barriers and reduce Indigenous alienation from the criminal justice system. This may include being available to provide appropriate information to the court and/or speaking on behalf of the accused;
- Inform justice officials about the cultural traditions, values, languages, socio-economic conditions and other concerns of the Indigenous community and the perspective of Indigenous accused. Initiate further understanding when required;
- Promote understanding within the Indigenous community, of the existing criminal justice system and alternative justice processes;
- Promote and facilitate community-based justice initiatives and help build community capacity to identify and address problems, which could end up in the courts or community justice system.

Courtenay

Wachiay Friendship Centre (Courtenay)
Location: Courtenay
Description: The Wachiay Friendship Centre is a non-profit society whose mandate is to provide services and supports to the urban Aboriginal population in the Comox Valley Regional District. Wachiay is an inclusive organization and our programming is open to people of all ethnicities. Wachiay’s Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal clients and membership include individuals and families that range from homeless, unemployed and under-employed living with poverty issues, to low-income earners who are struggling from month to month. For many, their primary focus is basic survival. This is the demographic we serve. Poverty is not specific to one ethnicity and accordingly, our services are available to all people in need. We recorded approximately 12,200 point-of-service contacts in 2014. Wachiay delivers more than 50 programs and services to Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal people.

Programs & Services
Poverty Law Advocacy: Wachiay’s Advocacy Program provides information, referrals, advice and full representation in selected cases to people of limited means with respect to the following:
- Access to benefits such as income assistance, Person with Disabilities (PWD) and Canadian Penion Plan (CPP) disability benefits, Guaranteed Income Supplement, SAFER and more;
- Tenancy issues including eviction, damage deposits, rent increases and tenants’ rights;
- Debt including debt collection and harassment;
- Human rights;

Helping Hands Program: Wachiay’s Helping Hands program provides emergency food bags for individuals and families, and other services such as access to prescription medications, on a case-by-case basis.

Duncan / Cowichan Tribes

Quwutsun Mustimuhw Restorative Justice Program (Cowichan Tribes)
Indigenous Justice Strategy Program (Justice Canada & BC Corrections)

Location: Duncan / Cowichan Tribes
Description: In 2001, Cowichan Tribes entered into a Community Tripartite Agreement with the federal and provincial governments to provide liaison services to the local RCMP and parole/probationary staff. The result has been improved relations with the local RCMP detachment and a sub-RCMP office opened at the Cowichan Band office, with four officers assigned 80 per cent of the time to the Reserve. The program’s Justice Committee recommends policies and programs to Chief and Council and oversees their implementation. Day-to-day duties are managed by the Community Justice Coordinator, who is designated to review all required files and areas that require justice review. The Justice Coordinator works closely with the RCMP, BC Conservation Officer Service, Department of Fisheries and Oceans, Crown Counsel, the Provincial Courts, BC Community Corrections and Duncan First Nations Court. Working with these agencies, the Justice Coordinator has designed and developed a Restorative Justice process and procedures.

Programs & Services

Crime Prevention: Quwutsun Mustimuhw Restorative Justice Program (QMRJ) is strongly prevention-based in nature. In conjunction with Cowichan Tribes and numerous local partners, the Community Justice Coordinator designs and implements information and education activities, in addition to ensuring culturally significant prevention programming, with a specific focus on youth.

Adult Program: Services include but are not limited to bail and probation monitoring; diversion and alternative measures programming; restorative justice circles; coordination of community work services; and facilitation of culturally relevant healing plans.

Youth Program: QMRJ assists with the monitoring of young offenders under the supervision of the Youth Probation office of the Ministry of Children and Family Development. Additional services for youth include: extrajudicial sanctions and extrajudicial measures; restorative justice circles; healing circles; and community work service. Intervention and prevention programming are an important part of our work to support youth in Cowichan communities.

Restorative Justice process: QMRJ’s Facilitators review and implement a restorative justice process for the first-time offenders. Referrals are directed to the group from the Provincial Crown Council office for alternative measures. The group works closely with Corrections Canada on developing a strategy for the release of community citizens from federal and provincial institutions, including support services.

Alternative Sentencing: Court judges confer with Cowichan Tribes about alternatives to standard sentencing options. QMRJ may assist with pre-sentence reports and alternative sentencing options where required.

Parole Liaison: QMRJ develops community re-entry strategies for Cowichan members who are incarcerated in federal or provincial institutions, based on consultation with family members, the community, the parolee, and their parole officer.

Additional Programs & Services Respectful Relationships courses (BC Corrections), Substance Abuse Management course (BC Corrections), Family Mediation, Volunteer Services, By-Law Enforcement, Animal Control.
Referrals: Referrals into the Quwutsun Mustimuhw Restorative Justice Program are made by RCMP, BC Conservation Officer Service, Department of Fisheries and Oceans, the Provincial Court, BC Community Corrections, Duncan First Nations Court, local schools, and the Cowichan Tribes community.

Website: www.cowichantribes.com/member-services/community-justice/

Service area: The Quwutsun Mustimuhw Restorative Justice Program principally serves Cowichan Tribes communities in Duncan and the Cowichan Valley, although the program extends services outward to a broad section of southern Vancouver Island as needed. Cowichan Tribes is the largest single First Nation Band in British Columbia, numbering over 4,900 members. Cowichan Tribes communities include Quamichan (Kwa’umutsun), Comiaken (Qw’umiqiqun), Kiksila (Xwulqw’selu), Somena (S’amuna’), Clecmoumluts (Lhumlhumuluts’), Khenipsen (Xinupsun), and Cowichan Bay (Tl’lulpalus).

Duncan First Nations Court

Provincial Court of British Columbia

Location: Duncan

Description: First Nations Courts are criminal sentencing courts that use restorative justice and traditional ways to reach balance and healing. First Nations Courts focus on balancing rehabilitation, accountability, and healing. With the advice of Elders and your community, the judge creates a healing plan to help restore your mental, physical, spiritual, and emotional health. You might still be sentenced to jail. If you’re sentenced to jail, the judge must still consider your unique circumstances in their decision. The Elders Justice Council is an active part of the Indigenous Court process, helping clients create a healing plan that addresses the factors that led them into the justice system. The Elders hold monthly business meetings and participate in all sittings of the Prince George Indigenous Court. (Source: Legal Services Society)

Indigenous Skills and Employment Training (ISET) Program

Locations: Duncan (Head Office) and South Vancouver Island

Description: Coast Salish Employment & Training Society (CSETS) is a funding, training delivery and coordination agency supporting Aboriginal individuals and communities by facilitating relationships that lead to opportunities to meeting training employment needs, thereby advancing self-reliance. CSETS was created in 1997 through an agreement between 19 Coast Salish First Nations and three Aboriginal Friendship Centres, funded by Canada’s Indigenous Skills and Employment Training Program. The purpose of CSETS is to assist the member Nations so that they may gain employment training or attain funding that will allow them to be employable.

Programs & Services: Employment for our Nations is the main goal for CSETS. Communities and Friendship Centres receive funding from CSETS so they can provide services in their designated areas. These services maybe in the form of career counselling, employment training, purchase of work gear & support for on-the-job projects. Some communities develop and deliver their own programs on literacy, life-skills and other certification programs.

Admissions Criteria: Clients must be 15 years or older and must have lived in the area for a minimum of six months.

Funding, Financial Support & Current Training Programs: Depends on the program and other variables. Call for more information.

Nanaimo

Tillicum Lelum Aboriginal Society (Nanaimo)
Location: Nanaimo
Description: Tillicum Lelum Aboriginal Friendship Centre promotes justice, fairness and equality for Aboriginal people through a holistic approach to programming and services. Our philosophy is one that encompasses all people in the community who request our assistance.

Programs & Services
Family Support and Social Worker Program: Works with urban Aboriginal families. We provide counselling, advocacy, information and referrals to build a holistic support network. We also offer supervised visits to families through outside service referral. This program facilitates parenting and support groups, offering encouragement to families who wish to connect with their cultural heritage and traditions.

Phone: 250-753-6578

Men's Wellness Program: This program is for adult male survivors of sexual abuse, historical trauma, and the impacts of Residential School. We offer a closed support group and individual counselling. Cultural healing traditions are often incorporated. Pre-registration for the group is required.

Phone: 250-753-8291

Prison Liaison Worker Program: This program provides support to Aboriginal inmates at the Nanaimo Correctional Centre. Culturally sensitive one-on-one counselling, smudging circles and sweat lodges are available. Sentence planning, re-integration and parole planning and substance abuse referral services are also available.

Phone: 250-729-7725

Drug & Alcohol Counselling Program: This program provides one-on-one counselling support services as well as groups in a culturally safe environment. In one-on-one sessions, counsellors provide internal and external referrals, harm reduction support as well as holistic recovery-based planning such as relapse prevention, treatment planning, connection to health supports, cultural connection and spiritual practice. Groups are offered in either a drop-in setting or in closed group, this depends on the group running at the time. The program accepts self-referrals as well as community referrals.

Nanaimo Native Courtworker Program

Native Courtworker & Counselling Association of British Columbia

Office location: Nanaimo

Description: For over 40 years, Native Courtworkers have helped Indigenous people navigate the criminal justice system. There are Native Courtworkers located around the province, covering approximately 70% of the provincial courts. They work with the various officers of the court, communities and service providers to assist Indigenous people in contact with the justice system to receive fair, equitable and culturally sensitive treatment within that challenging system.

Programs & Services: Native Courtworkers assist Indigenous accused by providing timely and accurate information at the earliest possible opportunity and at all stages of the criminal justice process. We provide information about the nature and consequences of the charge; your rights, responsibilities and options under the law including alternative justice processes (if available); the philosophy and functioning of the criminal justice system, and of alternative justice processes (if available); court procedures; and the disposition or direction given by the court or community to the offender. Additionally, Native Courtworkers:

- Provide Indigenous accused with appropriate referral to legal resources (as available and where practical);
- Refer Indigenous accused to appropriate social, education, employment, medical and other resources to enable them to address the underlying problems which contribute to their charges and, where appropriate, follow-up on these referrals;
- Liaise between Indigenous accused and criminal justice personnel to help overcome communication barriers and reduce Indigenous alienation from the criminal justice system. This may include being available to provide appropriate information to the court and/or speaking on behalf of the accused;
- Inform justice officials about the cultural traditions, values, languages, socio-economic conditions and other concerns of the Indigenous community and the perspective of Indigenous accused. Initiate further understanding when required;
- Promote understanding within the Indigenous community, of the existing criminal justice system and alternative justice processes;
- Promote and facilitate community-based justice initiatives and help build community capacity to identify and address problems, which could end up in the courts or community justice system.

Port Alberni

Kackaamin (Drug & Alcohol Treatment)

First Nations Health Authority / National Native Alcohol and Drug Abuse Program

Location: Port Alberni / Beaver Creek area

Description: Kackaamin Family Development Centre is dedicated to a holistic approach to family healing and growth with the understanding that trauma leads to addictions. We believe every individual has the power of healing within themselves. We believe addiction to be a chronic, progressive, and often fatal individual and family disease. Its progress and results can be controlled and healed within every individual. We believe in the healing power of the Circle as guided by the energies of our Creator. We believe recovery from substance abuse and other addictions is a lifelong process. Traditional Aboriginal teachings empower our families to develop healthy relationships as they continue on their healing journey.

Programs & Services
- Individual, Couple, Family and Group Counselling
- Educational teachings on addictions and related behaviors
- Spirituality and cultural awareness through the use of traditional teachings and ceremonies
- Student Learning Centre (K-12)
- Child and Youth Therapeutic Counselling
- Toddler Centre (Daycare)
- Parenting Skills, Family Play Time
- Communication Skills
- Anger Management
- Relapse Prevention
- Resolving Trauma

Kackaamin employs Certified Addiction Counsellors who facilitate educational workshops that broaden the knowledge of our adult clientele on a variety of topics and issues. Weekly individual, couple, and family counselling along with community capacity-building support sessions. The educational workshops cover a variety of topics such as: Alcohol, drugs, and their effects; Behavioral addiction; Grief and loss; Communication; Trust; Boundaries; Defense mechanisms; Anger management; Co-dependency; Residential schools; Trauma; Spirituality and Cultural development; Cultural and traditional teachings; Healing ceremonies and sweat lodges; Recreation with your family; AA/NA meetings; The Virtues Project (a parenting program).

Referrals: Referrals to our centre must be made by drug and alcohol counsellors & workers, social workers, referral workers, clinical counsellors, MCDF workers. Clients are required to attend a minimum of six (6) one-hour pre-treatment counselling and/or other support sessions in preparation for treatment. Self-referrals are not accepted.

Admissions Criteria:

Port Alberni Friendship Centre

Location: Port Alberni

Description: The Port Alberni Friendship Centre (PAFC), established in the 1966, is one of the more than 118 friendship centres across Canada, 25 of which are located in BC, with a mandate of providing services to urban Aboriginals. The services presently provided at our centre are counselling, recreation programs, youth employment training program, Outreach Legal Advocacy Program, some public health services, social events, crafts and cultural events, with a general drop-in atmosphere. We are focused on improving the health and well-being of family, youth, children and elders using a strength-based approach.

Programs & Services

Addictions and Mental Health Counselling: Funded by Island Health, the mental health and addictions program continues to provide quality counselling services to members of the Port Alberni and surrounding communities. The program is available to all members of the community and strives to meet their needs in a friendly, compassionate and professional manner. Using holistic, evidence-based approaches to healing, the program offers both individual and couples counselling tailored to the specific needs of each individual. The PAFC mental health and addiction service provides individual, couple, and group treatment to a primarily Aboriginal population in the Port Alberni area. The counselling service is heavily focused on providing assessment and treatment services to individuals with moderate to severe mental health and addiction issues. In some instances, counselling is a precursor for clients, or families, who wish to obtain a referral to an inpatient treatment program for a much more in-depth and specialized treatment experience. Internally, counselling services continue to incorporate both early childhood development and family support services to ensure a coordinated approach is being developed for families with MCFD and USMA concerns. This team approach enhances all stake holders’ abilities to accurately assess and develop viable plans of actions that will solve real world problems.

Tsawaayuus (Rainbow Gardens)

The Westcoast Native Health Care Society / Island Health

Location: Port Alberni

Description: Tsawaayuus (Rainbow Gardens) is a neighbourhood care campus. Located in Port Alberni, British Columbia, Tsawaayuus (Rainbow Gardens) is a multi-level care facility providing 44 complex care beds, ten assisted living units, and 20 independent living apartments. Design and operation of Tsawaayuus reflect the West Coast Native culture. We advocate for priority placement of Aboriginal people in our facility.
Eligibility & Admission: Depending on your situation and care level, please see below for specifics on how to become a resident of Tsawaayuus Rainbow Gardens.

Long-term care: Island Health must be contacted to obtain admission to Tsawaayuus. Families or individuals request an assessment through Island Health by a nurse who works out of their local Health Unit. Once assessed, individuals are wait-listed until a bed becomes available. Individuals or families interested in touring the facility are welcome. Please contact us to make arrangements.

Assisted Living: Access to subsidized assisted living units is through Island Health’s Home and Community Care assessment. For more information on subsidized units, contact the Island Health Home and Community Care Office nearest you. Please do not contact the Operator directly regarding subsidized units.

Indigenous Skills and Employment Training (ISET) Program
Location: Port Alberni, and offices at Gold River & Ucluelet.
Description: The focus of NETP is to assist First Nations in gaining transferrable skills that support their employment path and long-term career. Our focus will be on providing a comprehensive suite of wrap-around support to First Nation clients. Our Case Managers can provide the following assistance to reach your goals:
- Explore career options and the job market;
- Build your resume and cover letter;
- Learn job search and interview strategies;
- Enhance your life-skills (e.g. confidence, communication, problem-solving);
- Enhance your practical skills (e.g. reading and writing, numeracy, computer skills);
- Overcome barriers to your employment (e.g. get a driver’s license, your Grade 12, work gear, work clothing, daycare etc.).
NETP also provides minimum levels of services for Indigenous Skills, Employment and Training Strategy (ISETS) to all Indigenous peoples living within the geographic region and funds training interventions to First Nations people as a priority with a focus on unemployed or under-employed persons wanting to get ahead in their job or career.

Service Area: NETP provides employment related services and programs to all First Nation peoples living in the geographic service area covering the Vancouver Island West Coast from Ditidaht First Nation in the South, First Nation communities inland East to Port Alberni, to Ka:’yu:’k’t’h’/Che:k:tles7et’h’ First Nation in the North. We have offices at Gold River, Ucluelet and Port Alberni.

Admissions Criteria, Funding & Financial Support: Individuals interested in NETP services but who currently live outside of the designated service area are ineligible for program support from NETP, and would need to inquire with their Nation directly, or the ISET Agreement Holder that is responsible for their region.

Port Hardy

Sacred Wolf Friendship Centre (Port Hardy)
Location: Port Hardy
Description: Sacred Wolf Friendship Centre has operated in Mt. Waddington since 2001. The centre has 13 staff, who offer six programs for children, youth, parents, caregivers and Elders.

Programs & Services
Poverty Law Advocacy Program: If you’re having issues with income assistance applications, such as regular income assistance, of if you are a person with disabilities, or someone who faces persistent multiple barriers, then our program may be able to assist you along the way. Whether it’s a denial on your recent application, or requesting a reconsideration of the denial, we’re able to provide information and guidance on the process. There are a number of benefits and supplements that are available through the ministry, for example. We are able to assist with Canada Pension Plan (and Canada Pension Plan Disability) applications. We can provide you with information on your rights as a tenant, how you can resolve any tenancy issue you may have with your landlord. We can support you through a residential tenancy dispute resolution hearing to resolve the matter before an arbitrator. The Advocate can also assist you with Income Assistance applications (regular, Persons with Disabilities, Persons with Persistent Multiple Barriers), denials, reconsideration and tribunals. If we can’t help you with a particular issue you’re having, we can often refer you to someone who can.

Reaching Home Housing Program: Reaching Home aims to help those who are looking for safe and secure housing on the North Island. Our worker can help those looking for housing or dealing with issues relating to housing.

Additional programs: Health and Wellness Worker, Youth Program, Family Development, Social Development Program, Early Childhood Development.
Service area: The Sacred Wolf Friendship Centre provides support services to aboriginal people in the North Island in the Regional District of Mount Waddington, including the communities of Port McNeill, Port Hardy, Port Alice and Alert Bay.

Saanichton / Tsawout First Nation

South Island Wellness Society - Indigenous Justice Program
Indigenous Justice Strategy Program (Justice Canada & BC Corrections)

Location: Tsawout First Nation / Saanichton, Vancouver Island

Description: Restorative justice is an opportunity to deal with conflicts involving our community members in a more culturally appropriate manner and in a way that is community-focused and community-driven. This program empowers Indigenous people by creating a setting that is easier to relate to than the court system, holding those in conflict more accountable, giving community members the opportunity to be involved in the justice process, and having more meaningful outcomes for those involved. In the First Nations and Indigenous communities we serve, the word “justice” reflects a way of life that focuses on relationships and the interconnectedness of all living beings. It is based upon traditional forms of dispute settlement, where all involved are called together to respectfully discuss the issue, and to come to an agreement on how to best restore balance and harmony to the disrupted relationship and to the community.

Programs & Services

Community Conflict Resolution: When there is conflict of any type in the community, community members can ask the Restorative Justice Program to call a Circle to resolve the conflict in a healthy way. Commonly these referrals are generated from schools, concerned parents or family members, and other members of the community who may need support.

Adult Program: Services include but are not limited to diversion and alternative measures programming; bail and probation monitoring; restorative justice circles; coordination of community work service; facilitation of culturally relevant healing plans.

Youth Program: Services include but are not limited to extrajudicial sanctions and extrajudicial measures; restorative justice circles; healing circles; and community work service. Intervention, family support and prevention programming are an important part of our work to support youth. On a limited basis, South Island Wellness Society (SIWS) assists with monitoring of young offenders under the supervision of the Youth Probation office of the Ministry of Children and Family Development.

Community Awareness & Support: SIWS can support clients navigating the justice system by connecting them to resources, and one-to-one mentorship.

Additional Programs & Services Healthy Relationships course (Adults) and Respectful Futures course (Youth). In addition to the programs outlined above, South Island Wellness Society provides extensive programming in support of children, youth and families, including Cultural Connection Plans, Permanency Plans, Voluntary Family Plan, Family Group Conferences, Family Case Planning Conference, and Youth Transition Conferencing.
Referrals: Restorative justice referrals commonly come from schools, concerned parents or family members, and other members of the community who may need support. Our program also partners with First Nations and Indigenous communities and leadership, RCMP, Crown Counsel, BC Community Corrections, the Native Courtworker and Counselling Association of BC, School Districts, Probation Officers, and other local agencies and institutions.

Victoria Native Friendship Centre

Location: Victoria

Description: The Victoria Native Friendship Centre (VNFC) has been in existence for over 45 years. VNFC provides services to an estimated 20,000 Aboriginal people living off-reserve in the greater Victoria area, as well as the 5,000 residents from the First Nations communities in the southern Vancouver Island region, in addition to a sizeable Aboriginal population from across Canada. VNFC takes great pride in their exceptional approach to First Nation social issues.

Programs & Services

Youth Department: Our mission is to provide supportive, positive, empowering, educational and culturally sensitive programming that promotes holistic wellness for Urban Indigenous youth. The Youth Services Team (Youth Support Workers and Youth Addictions Worker) provide the following one-to-one support services for Indigenous youth ages 12-24, who are living in the Greater Victoria area: Housing; Addressing Poverty Issues; Referrals to various community resources; Employment readiness; Addictions support; Court and legal support; Education and Alternate Education Plans; Probation / community service hours; Assistance with mental health issues and navigating mental health services; FASD support; Supporting youth with crucial appointments; Support with family breakdown; Tutoring; Securing underage income assistance, youth agreements; Teen pregnancy; Disclosures; Access to sports.

Awakening the Warrior Within: This program was developed to support Aboriginal men and women age 19 or older who are ready and willing to examine their relationship with family violence. The intent of the program is to provide an opportunity to gain a deeper understanding of family violence and its impact on self, family and community. The program length is four weeks. Program content includes:
- Creating a vision of what a community free of family violence would look like, sound like and feel like;
- Gaining a sense of self/reclaiming;
- Identifying what a respectful relationship would look like;
- Defining family violence and effects of family violence;
- Stopping the cycle of family violence.

Phone: 250-384-3211

Family Services Team (Child Welfare & Protection): Consists of two family support workers and three social workers. Our mandate is to advocate on behalf of individual(s) requesting our services and to support those urban Indigenous families who are directly involved with the Ministry of Children and Family Development (MCFD). We assist families in achieving their goals through emotional support, skill development, education, mentorship, cultural continuity and further referrals, if needed. Our workers help build solid networks of support within our community and with sister agencies. We also provide home visits and provide support with parenting skills, communication skills, budgeting, life-skills, nutrition, housing, social assistance, legal aid and court processes. Using a holistic, culturally sensitive approach, the social worker will be part of a multi-disciplinary team working to improve children, family and community identity and wellness. Applicants must complete an intake process either by phone or in person. An intake worker can be reached Monday through Friday from 1:00-4:00pm.

Contact: Brenda, Team Leader
Phone: 250-384-3211

Addictions Counsellors: VNFC’s Addictions Counsellors can assist with:
- One-on-one counselling for addictions issues, with a focus on drug and alcohol abuse;
- On-going support in all stages of change, including harm reduction, abstinence and early recovery;
- Help with developing healthy living skills (boundaries, time management and stress management);
- Information about and referrals to other services that would aid with healing and recovery, such as support groups, other agencies and residential treatment centres (Note: Indigenous Treatment Centres require six completed appointments before we can put in a referral).

Contact: Addictions Counsellor
Phone: 250-384-3211

Mental Health Liaison: The Mental Health Liaison is available to all people, in your home or community. We can help with:
- Community awareness on mental health;
- Materials for education on mental health;
- Referrals to appropriate resources;
- Support for you and your family navigating the mental health system;
- Advocacy in dealing with representatives in the mental health system.

Victoria & Colwood Native Courtworker Program
Native Courtworker & Counselling Association of British Columbia
Office location: Victoria / Colwood
Description: For over 40 years, Native Courtworkers have helped Indigenous people navigate the criminal justice system. There are Native Courtworkers located around the province, covering approximately 70% of the provincial courts. They work with the various officers of the court, communities and service providers to assist Indigenous people in contact with the justice system to receive fair, equitable and culturally sensitive treatment within that challenging system.
Programs & Services: Native Courtworkers assist Indigenous accused by providing timely and accurate information at the earliest possible opportunity and at all stages of the criminal justice process. We provide information about the nature and consequences of the charge; your rights, responsibilities and options under the law including alternative justice processes (if available); the philosophy and functioning of the criminal justice system, and of alternative justice processes (if available); court procedures; and the disposition or direction given by the court or community to the offender. Additionally, Native Courtworkers:
- Provide Indigenous accused with appropriate referral to legal resources (as available and where practical);
- Refer Indigenous accused to appropriate social, education, employment, medical and other resources to enable them to address the underlying problems which contribute to their charges and, where appropriate, follow-up on these referrals;
- Liaise between Indigenous accused and criminal justice personnel to help overcome communication barriers and reduce Indigenous alienation from the criminal justice system. This may include being available to provide appropriate information to the court and/or speaking on behalf of the accused;
- Inform justice officials about the cultural traditions, values, languages, socio-economic conditions and other concerns of the Indigenous community and the perspective of Indigenous accused. Initiate further understanding when required;
- Promote understanding within the Indigenous community, of the existing criminal justice system and alternative justice processes;
- Promote and facilitate community-based justice initiatives and help build community capacity to identify and address problems, which could end up in the courts or community justice system.

Dawson Creek

North Wind Wellness Centre
First Nations Health Authority / National Native Alcohol and Drug Abuse Program
Location: Dawson Creek / Peace River Country (Land-based)
Description: The effects of alcohol and drug addiction are often devastating to individuals, families and communities. The North Wind Wellness Centre offers a 45-day, culturally based, residential treatment program for ages 19 and up. It also welcomes opportunities to serve youth at risk, including back-to-the-land programming through our networking with Indigenous local communities and School Districts in Dawson Creek and Fort St. John. The Centre is located just north of Dawson Creek in the beautiful Peace River country. The facility includes a main common building, session and craft room, sweat lodge, exercise equipment, computers, counsellors’ office, and administration building. It is located on 150 acres of wilderness that participants may walk and collect medicines, weather permitting. We offer a Sweat lodge, Blanket, Burning-bundle, and Pipe amongst other ceremonies, and we introduce and reinforce the concept of sacredness by means of traditional culture. Each day begins and ends with smudge and prayer circle. The North Wind Healing Centre endeavors to meet human needs with compassion by providing tools that assist people in recovery from addictions by gaining self-reliance, discovering their unique gifts, developing their unique abilities, and finding support for recovery within their family and community.

Nak’adzli Alternate Justice Centre
Indigenous Justice Strategy Program (Justice Canada & BC Corrections)
Location: Fort St. James / Nak’adzli Whut’en
Description: Nak’adzli Alternate Justice Center (NAJC) assists our community in the local administration of justice, in a culturally relevant fashion. Our Centre relies on the support of the community, RCMP, the Criminal Justice System & Community Corrections. It is the intention of the Justice Centre to work with our clients in a meaningful way that incorporates ownership, consequences for actions, and innovative alternatives to mainstream justice.

Programs & Services: The NAJC provides a variety of programs that meet the demands of the community, including restorative justice circles, probation monitoring, alternative measures programming, diversion programming and land-based activities. We offer BC Corrections workshops and courses, including Respectful Relationships. The Centre supports extra-judicial sanctions and extra-judicial measures for youth. We also provide cultural awareness activities, prevention awareness, and interventions. We assist with criminal courts and law, criminal court applications, referrals to the appropriate agencies, and help individuals understand the process of the criminal justice systems or court orders. Upon request, the NAJC supports the community in providing Gladue information to the Court.

Fort St. James Native Courtworker Program

Native Courtworker & Counselling Association of British Columbia

Office location: Fort St. James

Description: For over 40 years, Native Courtworkers have helped Indigenous people navigate the criminal justice system. There are Native Courtworkers located around the province, covering approximately 70% of the provincial courts. They work with the various officers of the court, communities and service providers to assist Indigenous people in contact with the justice system to receive fair, equitable and culturally sensitive treatment within that challenging system.

Programs & Services: Native Courtworkers assist Indigenous accused by providing timely and accurate information at the earliest possible opportunity and at all stages of the criminal justice process. We provide information about the nature and consequences of the charge; your rights, responsibilities and options under the law including alternative justice processes (if available); the philosophy and functioning of the criminal justice system, and of alternative justice processes (if available); court procedures; and the disposition or direction given by the court or community to the offender. Additionally, Native Courtworkers:

- Provide Indigenous accused with appropriate referral to legal resources (as available and where practical);
- Refer Indigenous accused to appropriate social, education, employment, medical and other resources to enable them to address the underlying problems which contribute to their charges and, where appropriate, follow-up on these referrals;
- Liaise between Indigenous accused and criminal justice personnel to help overcome communication barriers and reduce Indigenous alienation from the criminal justice system. This may include being available to provide appropriate information to the court and/or speaking on behalf of the accused;
- Inform justice officials about the cultural traditions, values, languages, socio-economic conditions and other concerns of the Indigenous community and the perspective of Indigenous accused. Initiate further understanding when required;
- Promote understanding within the Indigenous community, of the existing criminal justice system and alternative justice processes;
- Promote and facilitate community-based justice initiatives and help build community capacity to identify and address problems, which could end up in the courts or community justice system.

Fort Ware (see also Prince George)

Kwadacha Nation Khutsedzik’e’ Cultural Wilderness Camp Program

Indigenous Justice Strategy Program (Justice Canada & BC Corrections)

Location: Prince George, Fort Ware & Kwadacha Nation territory (Land-based)

Description: Our Nation’s restorative justice program is called Khutsedzik’e’, which means “in our ancestors’ footsteps” in our Kwadacha language. A key component of our program is the justice and healing camps we deliver on the land throughout the year. The program works in collaboration with the RCMP, the justice system, and the local government. It is an opportunity to bring Kwadacha Elders, Council, community members, and outside agencies into the circle of support. Our cultural & wilderness-based approach allows for traditional restorative justice and healing to occur at the individual and community level. We focus on the strengths of individuals rather than their potential limitations to enhance individual, community, and cultural pride. In conjunction with our justice partners, Kwadacha’s restorative justice program also ensures alternative measures, diversionary, and prevention-based services for the Kwadacha people.

Programs & Services

Khutsedzik’e’ Cultural Wilderness Camp: Remote, land-based justice and healing camps are run throughout the year for adults, for youth, and for families & community.
Adult Program: Services include but are not limited to bail and probation monitoring; diversion and alternative measures programming; restorative justice circles; coordination of community work service; coordination and facilitation of culturally relevant healing plans.

Youth Program: Khutsedzik' e' Restorative Justice Program assists with the monitoring of young offenders under the supervision of the Youth Probation office of the Ministry of Children and Family Development. Additional services for youth include: extrajudicial sanctions and extrajudicial measures, diversion, restorative justice circles, healing circles, community work service. Intervention and prevention programming are an important part of our work to support Kwadacha youth; our remote justice and healing camps are a big part of teaching our youth to walk in the footsteps of their ancestors.

Community Justice Forums (Restorative Justice Circles): This model provides a safe, controlled environment in which an offender, victim and their families or supporters are brought together under the guidance of a trained facilitator. Together they discuss the offence, how they have all been affected, and jointly develop a plan to correct what has occurred. Offenders must accept responsibility for their own actions. They are confronted with how their behavior affected the victim personally; they hear it directly from their victim. The conversations are often difficult and emotional, so a neutral, impartial and well-trained facilitator is present to guide the conversation. Each is encouraged to speak openly, honestly and fully. Together they create a plan that will satisfy the needs of everyone. Sometimes it is enough for the offender to apologize and return what was taken or fix what was broken. Agreements may also include community service work, counselling, or addictions treatment for the offender. Other solutions are possible and welcomed.

Criminal Courts Support: Khutsedzik' e' Restorative Justice works closely with the Native Courtworkers and Counselling Society of BC to help clients navigate the criminal courts and law, including assistance with criminal court applications and referrals to the appropriate agencies. We help individuals understand the process of the criminal justice system and court orders. We hold healing circles, and promote cultural awareness, prevention awareness and interventions.

Additional Programs & Services: Traditional Knowledge and Medicines as taught by Elders, Respectful Relationships course (BC Corrections), Substance Abuse Management course (BC Corrections), clinical counsellors, Peacemaking Circles, Reconciliation Circles, Reintegration Circles.

Referrals: Community, Crown Counsel, BC Provincial Courts, RCMP, Ministry of Children and Family Development, BC Community Corrections.

Kitimat

Gya' Wa' Tlaab Healing Centre
First Nations Health Authority / National Native Alcohol and Drug Abuse Program
Location: Haisla (near Kitimat)
Description: The Healing Centre is a very sacred place that offers a unique program called ‘The Early Recovery/Stabilization Addictions Program’. Early Recovery is the first two years of the journey into recovery from an addiction. Our intention in setting up our programs and services is to assist clients to:

- Accept and understand their addiction and addictive behaviour;
- Once they get to that place, then they learn about/practise managing their addiction/addictive behaviour;
- From that point on, if they continue to follow through, they start to create positive changes in their lives and they have created a very powerful and positive foundation for their recovery.

There are several modules in our program, whereby clients can stay in residence for the full seven or eight weeks or they can come to a specific module to focus on a particular area. This is very helpful to clients who are working full-time or who are from the local area and want to come in as day clients. The Gya' Wa' Tlaab Healing Centre offers this Early Recovery/Stabilization Program to all First Nations, Inuit and other people of Canada. This program can be defined as an assessment, orientation, and readiness phase to treatment.

Programs & Services
The Program utilizes the following program resources to assist clients: Acu-Detox, Physical Fitness, Psycho-educational Group Facilitation, Mental Health Counselling, Methadone Maintenance Support, Attending Physician, Attending Pharmacist, and Culturally Appropriate Ceremonies.

- All male programs
- Seven- and eight-week Early Recovery / Stabilization Program
- Eight beds and up to five intakes per year (approx. 40 clients per year)
- Day patient clients can be arranged (male or female)

Referral & Admissions Criteria:

- Adult males age 19 years and older for the eight-week residential programming;
- “Wet” clients who are in minor withdrawal from their drug of choice;
- Methadone maintenance clients - including Suboxone prescriptions;
- Self-referrals are not accepted. Referrals must come through a social worker, counsellor or the justice system;
- Adult males age 19 years and older for short-term residential programming. These are clients who desire to look at specific areas of their addiction so they can come and stay for one or up to all eight of the modules;
- Day patients for specific modules of the program or for the full seven- or eight-week program;
- Clients with convictions related to addictions/addictive behaviour with the exception of sexual assault convictions;
- A maximum of three clients with Parole Orders/Probation Orders/Bail Orders per intake.

Funding & Costs: First Nations Health Authority or regional Health Authority generally cover costs.

Service area: The Gya’ Wa’ Tlaab Healing Centre offers this Early Recovery/Stabilization Program to all Indigenous and non-Indigenous people of Canada.

Wilp Si’Satxw House of Purification

First Nations Health Authority / National Native Alcohol and Drug Abuse Program

Location: Kitwanga, located between Hazelton and Terrace (Land-based)

Description: Wilp Si’Satxw believes that people who are addicted to spirit-destroying chemicals can gain power over their addictions. It is with this belief that the primary purpose of Wilp Si’Satxw is to provide a holistic, spiritually-based healing centre where people can go through the processes that will start them on the road to recovery. This approach looks at the following realms within an individual as important to the healing journey: Spiritual, Emotional, Physical/Sexual, Mental. Each person has the ability to confront problem issues and secure their personal power to walk in health and wellness. The process of healing in Wilp Si’Satxw begins with the understanding that each of us is responsible for Ourself and that self-healing is a personal choice. Our goals are to: share knowledge of traditional Native values; demonstrate a model of self-awareness and self-esteem; share knowledge of addiction and addictive process; share knowledge of developing healthy relationships; demonstrate and model skills needed for daily living; and share knowledge of relaxation techniques.

Nisga’a Access to Justice Department - Nisga’a Lisims Government
Indigenous Justice Strategy Program (Justice Canada & BC Corrections)

Location: New Aiyansh / Nisga’a Lisims Government

Description: Nisga’a Lisims Government’s Access to Justice department works to involve every Nisga’a citizen in promoting safety by building on the strengths of individuals, families, and communities. We provide culturally appropriate alternative justice solutions and help Nisga’a communities effectively respond to youth and adult justice issues. Nisga’a Access to Justice encourages the revival of traditional Nisga’a Wilp house system in resolving conflict, and we assist the Canadian justice system in improving its relevance and effectiveness in Nisga’a communities by developing and delivering alternative programming to deal with deterrence and prevention, diversion, sentencing, rehabilitation and incarceration. Working with the Public Order Peace and Safety Committee, our team promotes crime prevention through information, education and community development programming in Nisga’a communities. The Nass Valley Victim Services Program provides emotional support to victims of crime during their recovery and involvement with the justice process.

Programs & Services

Adult Program: Services include but are not limited to adult bail and probation monitoring (BC Corrections); adult diversion and alternative measures programming; restorative justice, healing & peacemaking circles; coordination of community work service; and facilitation of culturally relevant healing plans. Our program liaises between Nisga’a communities and the Canadian justice system and encourages the revival of traditional Nisga’a ways of resolving conflict. Nisga’a Access to Justice facilitates the release and reintegration of federal inmates by presenting advice and options to the Correctional Service of Canada.

Youth Program: Nisga’a Access to Justice assists with the healing plans and monitoring of young offenders under the supervision of the Youth Probation office of the Ministry of Children and Family Development. Additional services for youth include: extrajudicial sanctions and extrajudicial measures; restorative justice, peacemaking & healing circles; and supervision of community work service. In conjunction with our community partners, Nisga'a Access to Justice provides intervention and prevention programming & services to support youth and families.

Prince George

Prince George Urban Aboriginal Justice Society

Indigenous Justice Strategy Program (Justice Canada & BC Corrections)

Location: Prince George

Description: The mission of the Prince George Urban Aboriginal Justice Society (PGUAJS) is to reduce the number of Aboriginal people in conflict with the law. The Society recognizes that both preventive and responsive approaches are required. PGUAJS, in consultation with Aboriginal communities, will identify services gaps for Aboriginal people and sponsor initiatives that address the effects of intergenerational poverty, improve education, outreach services, rural transitional support, prevention initiatives and diversion services.

Programs & Services

Prince George Indigenous Court - Support: PGUAJS helps clients navigate the criminal courts and criminal law. Our adult program assists clients who are referred into the Prince George Indigenous Court by Crown Counsel, Defense Counsel, Adult Probation Officers and/or the Elders Justice Council. PGUAJS helps clients access vital community programs and counselling. The Elders Justice Council is an active part of the Indigenous Court process, helping clients create a healing plan that addresses the factors that led them into the justice system. The Elders hold monthly business meetings and participate in all sittings of the Prince George Indigenous Court.

Adult Diversion and Alternative Measures Program: PGUAJS assists with the monitoring of adult offenders under the supervision of the Corrections Branch, which may include, but not be limited to orders such as probation, bail, community supervision which includes diversion, alternative measures, Crown Counsel referrals for restorative justice circles, community work service, court orders redirected by Community Corrections probation officers.

Youth Diversion Program: Restorative justice circles are held for youth who have committed summary offences. An agreement is formulated through the restorative circle process and must be completed by the youth in a fixed amount of time. The PGUAJS team supports youth in completing their agreement. If the youth complies fully with the agreement, charges will be dropped. If compliance is reported as non-compliance or partial, the referring agency will decide the outcome. The aim of our Youth Diversion Program is to promote healing, reparation, reconciliation, restitution and the restoration of balance, in a fair, just and culturally appropriate way. The program is for youth of Aboriginal descent between the ages of 12 and 17 years old and who reside within the City of Prince George. Referring partners include but are not limited to Crown Counsel, the RCMP, School District, Ministry of Child and Family Development social workers, Aboriginal Education Department.
The Aboriginal Liaison Program: PGUAJS has a contractual agreement with the Prince George Regional Correction Centre to provide Aboriginal inmates with culturally relevant support services on a weekly basis. The program:

- Assists clients in the understanding of Aboriginal-based cultural practice to increase personal awareness;
- Helps clients improve spiritual and cultural connectiveness;
- Promotes and facilitates cultural activity by modelling counselling and cultural-based teachings, including the "The Seven Feathers" traditional teachings (Respect, Love, Honesty, Truth, Wisdom, Courage & Humility);
- Provides Elder support and leadership, as well as talking circles, crafts and arts, one-on-one support, community guest speakers, and annual events.

Aboriginal Wellness Reintegration Program
This is a new initiative for PGUAJS, funded by Public Safety Canada. The primary goals and objectives are to:

- Address the recidivism rate of Indigenous people involved within the justice system;
- Provide the necessary support to help inmates identify release plans to address the criminogenic factors that led them to becoming incarcerated;
- Link the inmate with community supports to increase their potential to succeed.

The two direct streams of client support are through the Institutional Reintegration Worker and the Community Reintegration Worker. The Institutional Reintegration Worker (IRW) works in collaboration with the Prince George Regional Correction Centre’s Deputy Warden of Programs, the Deputy Warden of Indigenous Programs, and the Integrated Offender Management (IOM) Team to determine inmate services. The IRW develops services that focus on release plans for inmate(s) held in both sentenced and remand units. The Community Reintegration Worker (CRW) provides release planning options to inmates serving a provincial sentence at the PG Regional Correction Centre. The release plan is intended to support healing and reduce risk of recidivism.

Prince George Native Courtworker – Northern Interior
Native Courtworker and Counselling Association of British Columbia
Office location: Prince George
Description: For over 40 years, Native Courtworkers have helped Indigenous people navigate the criminal justice system. There are Native Courtworkers located around the province, covering approximately 70% of the provincial courts. They work with the various officers of the court, communities and service providers to assist Indigenous people in contact with the justice system to receive fair, equitable and culturally sensitive treatment within that challenging system.

Programs & Services: Native Courtworkers assist Indigenous accused by providing timely and accurate information at the earliest possible opportunity and at all stages of the criminal justice process. We provide information about the nature and consequences of the charge; your rights, responsibilities and options under the law including alternative justice processes (if available); the philosophy and functioning of the criminal justice system, and of alternative justice processes (if available); court procedures; and the disposition or direction given by the court or community to the offender. Additionally, Native Courtworkers:

- Provide Indigenous accused with appropriate referral to legal resources (as available and where practical);
- Refer Indigenous accused to appropriate social, education, employment, medical and other resources to enable them to address the underlying problems which contribute to their charges and, where appropriate, follow-up on these referrals;
- Liaise between Indigenous accused and criminal justice personnel to help overcome communication barriers and reduce Indigenous alienation from the criminal justice system. This may include being available to provide appropriate information to the court and/or speaking on behalf of the accused;
- Inform justice officials about the cultural traditions, values, languages, socio-economic conditions and other concerns of the Indigenous community and the perspective of Indigenous accused. Initiate further understanding when required;
- Promote understanding within the Indigenous community, of the existing criminal justice system and alternative justice processes;
- Promote and facilitate community-based justice initiatives and help build community capacity to identify and address problems, which could end up in the courts or community justice system.

Prince George Indigenous Court
Provincial Court of British Columbia
Location: Prince George
Description: First Nations Courts are criminal sentencing courts that use restorative justice and traditional ways to reach balance and healing. First Nations Courts focus on balancing rehabilitation, accountability, and healing. With the advice of Elders and your community, the judge creates a healing plan to help restore your mental, physical, spiritual, and emotional health. You might still be sentenced to jail. If you're sentenced to jail, the judge must still consider your unique circumstances in their decision. The Elders Justice Council is an active part of the Indigenous Court process, helping clients create a healing plan that addresses the factors that led them into the justice system. The Elders hold monthly business meetings and participate in all sittings of the Prince George Indigenous Court. (Source: Legal Services Society)
Prince George Native Friendship Centre

Location: Prince George

Description: The Prince George Native Friendship Centre (PGNFC) is a non-profit, non-sectarian organization dedicated to servicing the needs of Aboriginal people residing in the urban area and improving the quality of life in the community as a whole. Fundamental to this is the recognizing the inherent worth of all peoples regardless of race, creed, sexual orientation or culture, and to promote this view in the community at large. The PGNFC has grown and continues to be one of the largest and busiest community service delivery agencies in Prince George. Our clientele of Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal peoples has supported the Centre's program offerings for the last 41 years. The PGNFC provides culturally appropriate programming to meet the community's unique and diverse needs. We offer a wide variety of services, which includes educational, employment, health and social programs.

Programs & Services

Tse’Koo Huba Yoh (Housing for Women): The Prince George Native Friendship Centre has joined with BC Housing to operate a 17-unit supported housing for adult women, which will address the needs of women who face multiple barriers that keep them from living stably and independently. Tse'Koo Huba Yoh is designed to address the needs of the most vulnerable people in our community through the provision of an affordable and safe "home" supportive atmosphere, thereby facilitating their transition to greater stability. All services are holistically designed and focused on minimizing existing barriers by addressing the spiritual, emotional, mental and physical needs of the tenants, therefore enabling women to have a greater quality of life and become healthy, active members of the community.

Tse’Koo Huba Yoh specifics:
- A Life Skills Worker is on site 24/7;
- 17 units, which include a full bath, twin bed, small fridge and a microwave;
- $375 per month (includes all utilities, laundry, and a local phone. Cable TV and telephone hook-ups in each room; option use at tenant's expense);
- Tenant must be eligible for Rent Subsidy;
- Length of stay is based on case management with the individual tenant and the outcome is that the individual will be able to live independently;
- Tenant will be currently accessing support services (referral);
- Tenant must have some form of stabilization (i.e. detox, supportive recovery) and/or have the ability to live independently;
- Tenant will agree to Tse’Koo Huba Yoh Addendum to tenancy Agreement as well as Tse’Koo Huba Yoh Standards.

The Ketso Yoh Centre (Housing for Men): The Ketso Yoh Centre provides supports as well as temporary living facilities for men in need. Consistent with the philosophy of the Prince George Native Friendship Centre, the Ketso Yoh Centre is operated in a manner that respects the individual’s human rights. Fundamental to this is the right of the resident to practice his culture and religion in an atmosphere free from threat - it being our philosophy that understanding one's cultural heritage is requisite if one is to develop as a person to his full potential. Ketso Yoh is a low-barrier facility that provides:

- 21 emergency shelter beds in summer and up to 35 in winter;
- 17 Alcohol & Drug Supportive Recovery beds;
- 16 Transitional living beds daily (365 days a year);
- Three meals a day, plus nightly snacks;
- Bedding, towels, shampoo, disposable razor, comb, shaving cream, toothbrush and toothpaste;
- Two outreach teams, available seven days a week;
- Third Party Outreach and Housing Outreach services;
- 24 hour daily drop-in centre for support and advocacy;
- Referrals to outside agencies;
- A safe and clean environment with staff on duty 24/7.
Admission Criteria: The shelter is available to adult males. The Alcohol & Drug program is available by application, with a screening and admission process. Supportive Living is available by application, for low-income individuals who have been homeless for one year or more and have challenges with mental health and/or addictions. Rent is required upon admission.

Outreach Services: Outreach Services are provided through the Aboriginal Homeless Outreach and Homeless Outreach teams. These services are designed to help clients find suitable, affordable, safe living units. This service is also offered the community. A housing list can be obtained to view available rental information within the community. Case planning is provided and support to access the various resources needed by each person is provided.

Friendship Lodge (Supported Housing): The Prince George Native Friendship Centre has joined with BC Housing to operate 30 units of one-bedroom supported housing, which address the needs of single adults who are homeless or at risk of being homeless. Core to the development of Friendship Lodge is addressing the needs in our community through the provision of an affordable, safe "home" supportive atmosphere thereby facilitating resident's transition to greater stability. Friendship Lodge assists individuals with mental illnesses and/or physical disabilities and/or those with drug and alcohol addictions with help they require to transition to self-reliance and independence. Services include: Life-skills development; employment readiness development services; case management and therapeutic group work; linkages to the continuum of health, mental health, and addiction services; group activities; referrals to other community services when required; on-site 24/7 staff support; & residential support workers.

Friendship Lodge requirements: Tenants must be low-income. Length of stay is based on case management with the individual tenant. Tenants will be currently accessing support services (referral) and must have some form of stabilization (i.e. detox, supported recovery) and/or have the ability to live independently. Tenants will agree to Friendship Lodge Addendum to Tenancy Agreement and Friendship Lodge Standards.

Family Law Legal Advocacy Program: We work with families considering separation, separated caregivers, parents, grandparents or other family members seeking custody, very young parents, and families who are involved with the Ministry for Child and Family Development. We can assist you in setting reasonable goals and in navigating the court systems to obtain a legal solution. The Family Law Legal Advocacy Program provides free assistance to anyone with family law issues or questions. It’s important to note that services are offered by a legal advocate, not a lawyer. We provide information, referral, advocacy, court support, and assistance with legal form completion in the following areas, so that community members can develop a plan to move forward:

- Parental arrangements, children’s rights, child protection
- Child or spousal support
- Separation and divorce, guardianship
- Protection orders

The Native Healing Centre: The Native Healing Centre provides a holistic and culturally sensitive program to Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal people who live in Prince George and surrounding areas and who have been affected by trauma, addictions, or grief and loss. The Native Healing Centre’s philosophy and approach to healing is embodied in a basic set of three principles that are reflected throughout the entire structure of the program: 1) The program is culturally sensitive and grounded in Aboriginal values; 2) The therapeutic interventions employ both traditional and non-traditional techniques for healing; and 3) Healing involves the individual and their family, as well as the whole community. Our services include:

  - One-on-One Counselling: Counselling for children and adults. One of the key goals is to educate clients, family members and community about the cycle of abuse and the importance of self-care. Referrals: Self-referrals and drop-ins are welcome.

  - Drug and Alcohol Counselling: Counselling for youth and adults working through their addictions. Counsellors seek to assist clients with entry into a treatment facility, and provide education for clients and their families about addictions, and promote healthy lifestyles. Referrals: Self-referrals and drop-ins are welcome.

  - Further programs & services: Drop-in and Crisis Support; Access to Elders and Cultural Facilitators; Victim Services; Pro Bono Law Clinic.

Prince Rupert Aboriginal Justice Program

Indigenous Justice Strategy Program (Justice Canada & BC Corrections)

Location: Prince Rupert

Description: Conflict inflicts harm. Through this program, individuals must accept responsibility for harm they have caused and work towards repairing this harm. Through our program, we bring together victims, offenders, and the community to take part in developing and implementing solutions that are beneficial to those affected. Our clients include youth and adults from both the Aboriginal and non-Aboriginal communities. Our goals are as follows:

- Administer an alternative justice program for people in Prince Rupert and the vicinity by incorporating cultural, restorative and holistic approaches;
- Promote the program within schools and public agencies;
- Reduce the number of people in the court system and in detention centres;
- Reduce the recidivism rate;
- Provide advisory services in relation to sentencing for the courts.

Programs & Services

Alternative Measures for Adult Corrections: When it is not necessary or beneficial to prosecute a person accused of committing a crime, the Criminal Code of Canada allows Crown counsel to determine if an alternative measures program would be more suitable. These programs are used for less serious offences and must at all times protect the public. We work with Provincial Corrections to administer this program.

Respectful Relationships: This program is intended for men who assault their partners. Its purpose is to make offenders aware of the values and beliefs of abusive behaviour; how abusive behaviour affects women and children; and non-violent skills that foster respectful relationships.

Substance Abuse Management: This program is aimed at teaching participants ways of reducing the harm of alcohol and drug use on themselves by changing thinking and behaviour towards alcohol and drug abuse.

Service area: Prince Rupert and the vicinity.

Friendship House Association of Prince Rupert

Location: Prince Rupert
Description: The Friendship House Association of Prince Rupert is an inclusive organization that exists to provide programs and services to the community at large, with an emphasis on the needs of the First Nations People in the areas of education, culture, health and recreation.

Programs & Services

Youth Justice Program: The Youth Justice Program consists of three central components: Case Aide Worker, Community Service Work, and Intensive Supervision and Support. The Case Aide Worker provides short-term assistance to youth so that they may remain in their community while receiving assistance with individual goals, needs and requirements. During this time, youth are encouraged and guided to develop positive and wholesome lifestyle skills that can be beneficial throughout their years. The Case Aide Worker can also help youth that have been removed or estranged from their families by assisting in re-establishing those broken relations. The worker can also provide assistance for youth who want to make the transition to living on their own. This program also helps youth fulfil their Community Service Work obligations by offering safe service work opportunities within the Friendship House or in several other not-for-profit community organizations. The Intensive Supervision and Support Program (ISSP) strives to support referred youth by offering support activities, supervision and supporting the youth's participation in other skills programming, either voluntary or required. Some examples of ISSP support activities are: assistance in obtaining a driver's learners license; résumé writing and filling out job applications, either hard copy or electronic. Overall, the Youth Justice Program provides help in removing barriers and achieving desired outcomes by providing pro-social and cultural activities. Some of the past year's cultural activities included: fish jarring with the elders; cooking traditional foods; and participating in such crafts as creating dream-catchers, medicine bags and beading.

Referrals: The Youth Justice Program receives referrals from the Youth Probation Officer of the Ministry of Children and Family Development. The program welcomes Indigenous and non-Indigenous youth on probation.

Terrace

Terrace Native Courtworker Program
Native Courtworker & Counselling Association of British Columbia
Office location: Terrace
Description: For over 40 years, Native Courtworkers have helped Indigenous people navigate the criminal justice system. There are Native Courtworkers located around the province, covering approximately 70% of the provincial courts. They work with the various officers of the court, communities and service providers to assist Indigenous people in contact with the justice system to receive fair, equitable and culturally sensitive treatment within that challenging system.

Programs & Services: Native Courtworkers assist Indigenous accused by providing timely and accurate information at the earliest possible opportunity and at all stages of the criminal justice process. We provide information about the nature and consequences of the charge; your rights, responsibilities and options under the law including alternative justice processes (if available); the philosophy and functioning of the criminal justice system, and of alternative justice processes (if available); court procedures; and the disposition or direction given by the court or community to the offender. Additionally, Native Courtworkers:
- Provide Indigenous accused with appropriate referral to legal resources (as available and where practical);
- Refer Indigenous accused to appropriate social, education, employment, medical and other resources to enable them to address the underlying problems which contribute to their charges and, where appropriate, follow-up on these referrals;
- Liaise between Indigenous accused and criminal justice personnel to help overcome communication barriers and reduce Indigenous alienation from the criminal justice system. This may include being available to provide appropriate information to the court and/or speaking on behalf of the accused;
- Inform justice officials about the cultural traditions, values, languages, socio-economic conditions and other concerns of the Indigenous community and the perspective of Indigenous accused. Initiate further understanding when required;
- Promote understanding within the Indigenous community, of the existing criminal justice system and alternative justice processes;
- Promote and facilitate community-based justice initiatives and help build community capacity to identify and address problems, which could end up in the courts or community justice system.

Tl’azt’en Nation / Tachie

Tl’azt’en Indigenous Justice Program
Indigenous Justice Strategy Program (Justice Canada & BC Corrections)
Location: Tl’azt’en Nation / Tachie
Description: The Tl’azt’en Indigenous Justice Program is committed to delivering services to the communities and all Tl’azt’en Nation members, to help create a safer and healthier community for present and future generations.

Programs & Services
Adult Program: Services include but are not limited to diversion and alternative measures programming; bail, probation and parole monitoring; advice on healing plans; restorative justice circles; coordination of community work service; facilitation of culturally relevant healing plans.

Youth Program: Services include but are not limited to extrajudicial sanctions and extrajudicial measures; restorative justice circles; healing circles; and community work service. Intervention and prevention programming and activities are an important part of our work to support youth. The Tl’azt’en Indigenous Justice Program assists with monitoring young offenders under the supervision of the Youth Probation office of the Ministry of Children and Family Development.

Community Justice Forums (Restorative Justice Circles): This model provides a safe, controlled environment in which an offender, victim and their families or supporters are brought together under the guidance of a trained facilitator. Together they discuss the offence, how they have all been affected, and jointly develop a plan to correct what has occurred. Offenders must accept responsibility for their own actions. They are confronted with how their behavior affected the victim personally; they hear it directly from their victim. The conversations are often difficult and emotional, so a neutral, impartial and well-trained facilitator is present to guide the conversation. Each is encouraged to speak openly, honestly and fully. Together they create a plan that will satisfy the needs of everyone. Sometimes it is enough for the offender to apologize and return what was taken or fix what was broken. Agreements may also include community service work, counselling, or addictions treatment for the offender. Other solutions are possible and welcomed.

Additional Programs & Services Respectful Relationships course (BC Corrections), Substance Abuse Management course (BC Corrections), Legal Aid Applications, Court Applications, Transportation to Fort St. James Provincial Court, Land-based Programming/Activities; Intervention Work; Life-skills referrals and direct support.
Referrals: Referrals into the Tl’azt’en Indigenous Justice Program can be made by the Community, RCMP, Crown Counsel, BC Community Corrections, Ministry of Children and Family
Development. In support of clients who are involved in the criminal justice system, the program works closely with the Native Courtworker & Counselling Association of BC.

Smithers & Hazelton

Gitxsan / Wet’suwet’en Unlocking Aboriginal Justice Program

Indigenous Justice Strategy Program (Justice Canada & BC Corrections)

Locations: Offices located in Smithers (Wet’suwet’en territory) & Hazelton (Gitxsan territory)

Description: The Gitxsan / Wet’suwet’en Unlocking Aboriginal Justice Program (UAJ) exists to help Wet’suwet’en and Gitxsan Clans & House Members to take responsibility for each other. UAJ is designed to provide information on the content and practice of Wet’suwet’en and Gitxsan law. The program promotes each particular client’s kinship connection to their respective Wilp or House in the development of healthy support networks. These networks provide support and guidance to clients during completion of the “contract agreement” between the client, the client’s Clan and House, and the UAJ. Individuals participating in the UAJ program take responsibility for their actions, pleading guilty to their offenses if they are facing criminal charges within the Canadian criminal justice system or requesting support from their Clan and House Group in the development of a healing plan. All participants enter the UAJ program on a voluntary basis. UAJ is not mandated to give legal advice.

Programs & Services The UAJ program provides prevention, pre- and post-charge diversion, alternative measures, sentence advisory, rehabilitation and victim support within the Wet’suwet’en territory and Gitxsan nation.

Gitxsan / Wet’suwet’en Accountability Program: All clients must be involved in the UAJ program by voluntary consent and be willing to take responsibility for their actions. When all parties have accepted the referral, a House group meeting is scheduled for the development of adequate support and construction of a rehabilitation plan, or contract. All parties (offender, victim, Clan and family) must reach a consensus as to the terms of the contract. An agreement for services is drawn and signed by all parties. Copies of the contract agreement of services are distributed to the members involved. If the participant is sentenced to serve a term of probation, the UAJ justice worker supervises the court order. If the client re-offends, a house group meeting is scheduled to address the concerns, either by redesigning the plan of action or terminating the file. The advisory board determines if the file is closed and referred back to the referring agency.
Community Justice Forums (CJF): For people who don’t belong to the Gitxsan or Wet’suwet’en House and Clan systems, UAJ offers a restorative justice circles model is used by the RCMP and provides a safe, controlled environment in which an offender, victim and their families or supporters are brought together under the guidance of a trained facilitator. Together they discuss the offence, how they have all been affected, and jointly develop a plan to correct what has occurred. Offenders must accept responsibility for their own actions. They are confronted with how their behavior affected the victim personally - and they hear it directly from their victim. The conversations are often difficult and emotional, so a neutral, impartial and well-trained facilitator is present to guide the conversation. Each is encouraged to speak openly, honestly and fully. Together they create a plan that will satisfy the needs of everyone. Sometimes it is enough for the offender to apologize and return what was taken or fix what was broken. Other agreements may include: community service work, counselling, or addictions treatment for the offender.

Culture camp: The contract may require that the offender participate in a culture camp. Culture camps educate children, youth and adults about Wet’suwet’en and Gitxsan culture and traditions through guidance and counsel by Elders and Hereditary Chiefs, including instruction in legends, songs and dancing, as well as traditional hunting and food preparation.

Intervention and Prevention: The UAJ program has contributed to a number of programs with intervention and prevention services in response to emergent issues. Examples include an internet cyberbullying workshop for elementary to high school students, and sexual abuse prevention outreach to children ages seven to 12.

Additional Programs & Services Adult bail supervision; support of youth probation; referral coordination for adult and youth; Gladue report and component support; Respectful Relationships workshops.

Referrals: Referrals into the UAJ program may be made by any of the following: Self-referral, Community organizations, RCMP, BC Community Corrections, Ministry of Children and Family Development, Youth Probation, Clans & Houses, Crown Counsel, Victims Services, lawyers, Legal Aid, and local schools.
